

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Among the gifts worthy of mention received during the month of December were the following: From the Cambridge Bridge Commission, Boston, the "Report of the Commission and report of the Chief Engineer upon the construction of Cambridge bridge," Boston, 1909; Mrs. William T. Carter a copy of "John Redington of Topsfield, Mass., and some of his descendants, with notes on the Wales family," by Cornelia M. Redington Carter, edited by Josiah Granville Leach, Boston, 1909; the Hudson-Fulton Celebration Commission, a set of nine medals issued by the Commission in commemoration of their work, struck in silver, silver plate, bronze, and aluminum; the Imperial Library of India a copy of part two of its Catalogue, being the "Subject index to the author catalogue," volume I, A-L. Calcutta, 1908; Dr. William V. Ingham, a copy of "Samuel Delucenna Ingham," by William Armstrong Ingham, Printed for the author, 1910; Dr. S. Adolphus Knopf, a copy of his "Tuberculosis, a preventable and curable disease: modern methods for the solution of the tuberculosis problem," New York, 1909, "Tuberculosis as a disease of the masses and how to combat it," and "An appeal: the anti-tuberculosis war and the red cross Christmas stamp;" J. Pierpont Morgan, the handsomely printed and illustrated catalogue of "Cylinders and other ancient Oriental seals in the library of J. Pierpont Morgan," catalogued by William Hayes Ward, New York, privately printed, 1909; the New York City Art Commission, a "Catalogue of the works of art belonging to the City of New York and issued by the Art Commission," New York, 1909, a copy for every branch of the library; Hon. George B. McClellan, the original manuscripts of the messages from the twenty-one foreign delegates to the Hudson-Fulton Celebration, delivered at the official reception, Monday evening, September 24, 1909; the Railroad Age Gazette, sixty-four volumes of "The Engineer," London, volumes 30-93 (1870-1902); Herman Robinson, a collection of receipts and other papers, some fifteen in number, relating to a fund, created for the maintenance of Robert Crowe, the labor leader, 1905-1909, with a copy of "The reminiscences of Robert Crowe, the octogenarian tailor," printed at New York about 1903; Elihu Root, twenty-two volumes, a continuation of his gift of documents relating to the United States Insular Possessions; Professor L. S. Rowe, "Essai sur la nature du papier monnaie" by Guillermo Subercaseau [Paris, 1909]; and from Robert H. Whitten, his statistical study entitled "Comparison of operation of the New York and Paris Subway systems," 1909.

At the Lenox Branch, on December 1 the Hudson River prints in the galleries gave way to an exhibition of "Modern Book Plates." It is practically a display of American work, although a few French, German, English, Dutch and South American plates have been included, to accentuate the variety of interest offered by the study of ex-libris. Among the foreign plates a group by C. W. Sherborn is particularly noteworthy. Among the American ones, those by Edwin D. French and J. W. Spenceley, both deceased, are accompanied by original drawings, copper plates, impressions in various states and from canceled plates, serving to illustrate methods of production. Like these two artists, S. L. Smith, W. F. Hopson, J. H. Fincken, and A. N. Macdonald engrave their designs on copper. W. M. Stone, W. E. Fisher, D. McN. Stauffer, Jay Chambers, Mrs. A. R. Wheelan and many others draw for photo-mechanical reproduction. Still others etch their plates, and the difference in method and results is extremely suggestive. The usual selection of illustrative literature accompanies the exhibit.

In the lower hall at the LENOX branch the Washington Irving exhibit was replaced in the middle of the month by a number of mezzotints in color by F. G. Stevenson. This art, much in vogue to-day, has been practiced in our own country, notably by S. Arlent Edwards, for a number of years. In the present exhibition the process of printing mezzotints in colors in one printing is illustrated by the aid of a copper plate showing various stages of "rocking," progressive proofs (the earlier ones in black and white, later ones in light colors, until the point is reached where the plate is finished and can be printed from in the rich colors characteristic of such work), a cancelled plate, and impressions from such plates. A full description of the process is also displayed, and the interested visitor is referred to further literature on the subject. Such an exhibit eliminates the dryness of technical details and accentuates their interest. Moreover, Stevenson's facility and adaptability are exercised on works of artists so widely separated by time and place as Botticelli, Boucher, Van Dyck, Morland, Romney, Hoppner and Reynolds. So that, as nearly always in these exhibitions, the interest is varied in its appeal.

At the ASTOR Branch, the reproductions of paintings in the Wallace Collection and plates from Mr. J. C. Dana's collection "The printed book" were on view.

Picture bulletins and lists of books were posted in the branches as follows: CHATHAM SQUARE, Wild animals; SEWARD PARK, Arctic exploration; RIVINGTON STREET, Opera scores; HAMILTON FISH PARK, Fairy pictures; BOND STREET, Austrian Tyrol, Evolution of the North American continent, Songs that never die, Spain, Tropical America, Wild life near home; HUDSON PARK, Tangiers, Life on the Congo, John Greenleaf Whittier, Musical composers, William Ewart Gladstone; TOMPKINS SQUARE, Woman suffrage, North Pole, The December magazines; EPIPHANY, Middle Ages; 58TH STREET, Renaissance, Greek art, Roman art, Jack Frost; 67TH STREET, Reproductions of fine famous Dutch pictures, Dog stories, Bedtime stories, Indoor games; RIVERSIDE, Dutch boys and girls; Ghost stories, Nursery rhymes, Stories of the West; 115TH STREET, The child world; 125TH STREET, Fairy tales, Humor, Education, School and college stories; ST. GEORGE, Stratford-on-Avon; STAPLETON, Western life.

In addition there were picture bulletins, lists of books, verses, and songs on Christmas at twenty-nine branches, on new books at six, on New Years' Day at three, on navigating the air at two, and on subjects of Board of Education lectures at two branches.

At the RIVINGTON STREET branch there was an exhibit of relics of North American Indians loaned by the Museum of Natural History; at the 115TH STREET branch an exhibit of three large scenes carved in cork in bas-relief loaned by Messrs. Ferdinand Gutman & Co., and also an exhibit showing the growth, and the manufacture of cork into various objects; at the 135TH STREET branch a postal card exhibit of views of Cologne and Nuremberg; at the STAPLETON branch a collection of photographs of famous pictures of the Madonna; and at ST. GEORGE a collection of books illustrated by Walter Crane and Kate Greenaway, loaned by Mr. L. R. E. Paulin, including many of the Christmas books and drawings of both artists in black-and-white, as well as the more serious work of Walter Crane in his illustrations to Shakespeare, Spenser's "Faerie Queen," etc.

Great Britain. — Foreign Office. Turkey. 1875, no. 4. Correspondence respecting the question of the negotiation of commercial conventions by the principalities. London: Harrison and Sons [1875]. 1 l., 26 p. (Parliamentary Papers, 1875, v. 83.)

The correspondence itself covers the period from July 5, 1874 to Jan. 20, 1875, although some of the inclosures are of an earlier date, and lies between Lord Derby, H. B. M. Secy. for Foreign Affairs, Sir H. Elliot, Lord Odo Russell and Lord Lytton. It originated in the submission, by Austro-Hungary in 1874, of a desire to obtain from H. M. Government views on the subject of the negotiation of commercial conventions directly by the principalities. The question was opened by the Austro-Hungarian Minister for Foreign Affairs, Count Andrassy, in a despatch of June 14, 1874 to the Austro-Hungarian Ambassador in Great Britain.

The opening paragraphs of the despatch which is printed on p. 1-3 of the above paper, summarizes the situation. "The treaty of commerce concluded between Austria and Turkey in 1866 has never been applied to Servia or Roumania, for although forming politically an integral part of the Ottoman Empire, they enjoy complete independence in all that relates to internal administration, more especially in commercial matters. . . . This independence together with the absence of any treaty engagements with Austria leaves the Principality at liberty to regulate at pleasure their import and export duties. The uncertainty in matters of commerce arising from such a state of things affects not only Austrian trade with the principalities, but also the transit trade of foreign countries."

REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR

FOR THE YEAR ENDING DECEMBER 31, 1909.

JANUARY 3, 1910.

HON. JOHN BIGELOW,
President of The New York Public Library.

SIR:

I have the honor to submit the following report of the work of the Library for the year 1909.

Since my last report the Board has lost its second vice-president, John Stewart Kennedy, who died at his home in this city on Sunday, October 31, 1909. Mr. Kennedy had served as a trustee of the Lenox Library since 1885, becoming its president in 1887, and he served as trustee and second vice-president of The New York Public Library from the time of consolidation in 1895. By his will the Library is to receive three sixty-fourths of his residual estate, estimated to amount to not less than $2,250,000. The bequest is unrestricted, but it will not be available until the estate is settled, which will take fully a year or more.

At the regular meeting of the Board on January 13, 1909, John L. Cadwalader was elected first vice-president in place of the late Right Rev. Henry C. Potter, and Edward W. Sheldon was elected treasurer in place of the late Edward King. The vacancy caused by the death of Bishop Potter was filled by the election on January 13, 1909, of John W. Alexander, president of the National Academy of Design; and the place of the late Edward King was filled by the election of John Henry Hammond, on February 10.

Arthur E. Bostwick, chief of the circulation department since 1901, resigned October 1, 1909, to become librarian of the St. Louis Public Library, and Benjamin Adams, who had served as his assistant since 1904, was appointed in his place.

GENERAL SUMMARY.

The current activity of the Library is shown in the following summary:

In the reference branches during 1909 readers and visitors numbered 265,912; 194,091 desk applicants consulted 776,703 volumes (corresponding

The print department now contains 70,310 prints; there has been little increase in the music, map, or manuscript departments. REFERENCE DEPARTMENT.

NEW BUILDING.

Progress on the new central building at Fifth Avenue and Forty-second Street has continued satisfactorily. One new contract has been let, that for the electric generating plant, and bids have been opened for another contract, though this last, for furniture and equipment, has not yet been awarded.

The plate opposite this page shows the condition of the main reading room at the end of December, 1909.

Work on the individual contracts stands to-day as follows:

Contract No. 4: Book Stacks. The erection of all stack work has been completed, including all gallery stairs and railings, with the exception of the stairs in the Technology and Periodicals Reading Rooms.

The wrought iron railings and bronze hand rails at window spaces in the main stack have been set. The bronze numerals for stack ends are in place in the four upper tiers of the main stack room, and 42,296 shelves have been delivered, though they are not yet put in place.

The ornamental bronze railings and fascias in the Periodicals Reading Room have been set and in the Technology Reading Room they are delivered ready for setting.

The bronze hand rails to stack balustrades throughout the building are in place.

The marble floor slabs to gallery stacks, and all stair treads, have been set, except the treads in the Periodicals and Technology Reading Rooms, and the treads of the south staircase in the main stack room.

Throughout the stack room the marble floors are in place, with the exception of a few slabs adjoining the book lifts, where the delivery of enclosing screens is awaited; and the marble tiles in the lowest floor, where the work is almost completed.

The painters have finished work on all stacks on the second and third stories, and are now at work on the stacks and special reading rooms on the first floor.

Contract No. 5: Heating and Ventilation. All duct work throughout the building has been completed and all exposed ducts in the cellar have been encased with both the magnesia and canvas coverings; the smoke stack in boiler room has been encased in metal, also with asbestos plaster covering.

The heavy cast iron floor plates have been set at furnace doors in the boiler room; all cast register faces have been set in first, second, and third stories; all steam piping of every description throughout has been completed; all steel covers over trenches leading to radiators have been set and packed with mineral wool; all radiators in third story rooms have been set in place, fitted, connected, and painted; the steam fitters are now engaged in setting the radiators in the basement, first, and second floors.

The work of installing fans in blower rooms is completed; two tempering coils are in place and two others are nearly completed.

All copper drip pans have been set under skylight steam coils; all thermostat work, piping, etc., of every description has been completed throughout, except the setting of the thermostats.

Contract No. 6: Plumbing. All finished toilet room fixtures have been set complete in every respect throughout, and all the nickel faucets and bright work wrapped and protected; the fountains in halls, slop sinks in main stack rooms, and sinks and basins in all other rooms throughout have been set and completed. The drinking water cooler has been installed in cellar, and lines run to all drinking water faucets and fountains.

Connections have been made with the permanent water supply lines and the street mains; all fire valves and hose reels have been set, as well as all sill cocks on the approaches that are furnished by this contractor.

The cast iron drain boxes for floor drains in the boiler room have been set; all hot and cold water pipes throughout have been covered with cork insulations and canvas covering.

Contract No. 7: Interior Finish. The condition of the work under the interior finish contract is so far advanced that the contractor expects to be through some time in May following.

Contracts 4, 5, 6, and 8 are so nearly completed, and the work yet remaining is so closely related to the work of the interior finish contract, that all five contracts should be finished at about the same time.

The cabinet workers have completed the erection of all wood trim in the third story, except in the Main Reading Room, the Public Catalogue Room, and the Stuart Room, a large quantity of this trim being delivered ready for erection. In the second story all wood trim is completed. In the first story all wood trim is completed except in the Technology and Periodicals Reading Rooms. In these rooms much of the ceiling work is delivered ready for setting, the steel angles and wood frame have been put up, and the erection of ceiling work has been started.

In the basement floor the wood trim of the Children's Rooms and the Lecture Room has been set, and the wooden wall shelving in the Lending Delivery Room is delivered ready for setting.

The marble workers have completed the setting of all interior work throughout, with but a few exceptions, such as drinking water fountains, floor borders, mantels, etc. A large force of men is now engaged in rubbing down, cleaning, and pointing up the joints of the entire floor and trim.

Bronze workers have completed the erection of all windows, doors, grilles, railings, saddles, registers, etc., throughout, except the doors in seven rooms and the railings in five.

The conveyor and lift enclosures, the screens to the air inlets in the south court, the elevator grilles and cars, and the bronze ornaments for the marble in the Reception Room have not yet been delivered; but work thereon is practically completed at the shop and delivery will be made soon.

All book stacks, metal lockers, and parcel racks, furnished under this contract, the steel vault for housing the Library records, the ornamental cast iron work of the Lending Delivery Room, the kalamein work of the doors and the trim to book lifts, have all been delivered and set.

All the floor and wall tiling, including the brick floor, throughout the entire building, has been completed, except the floor and wall of the engine room and various small bits of patching and fitting.

The cork flooring is finished throughout, except in four rooms on the basement floor.

All decorations of ceiling and all painting and tinting of walls and ceilings in the second and third stories have been completed, and decorators have the finishing of the first story main corridor ceilings well advanced; all book stack work of this contract has been painted and finished, and the Patents Reading Room and the corresponding room on the south side are now half completed. The painting of all structural iron and wall surfaces in attic spaces of the ceiling light of third story and in the Lending Delivery Room has been completed.

The glaziers have completed the setting of all plate and prismatic glass throughout, with the exception of that in the interior wood partitions and the mirrors. All lavatory mirrors have been delivered and are now being set.

The plasterers have completed all plain and ornamental plastering throughout, except small bits of patching where walls have been cut.

Contract No. 8: Electrical Work. All conduit work throughout has been run and outlets of all kinds have been set up complete, including cutout and switch boxes; all wire has been pulled, except main feed wire.

The Standard Plunger Elevator Company has installed all book lifts complete, including the electric wiring for motors on lifts.

The Lamson Conveyor Company has installed all work for the two book conveyors, except the setting up and connecting of motors.

Contract No. 9: Approaches. This contract was awarded to Norcross Brothers in October, 1908. During the following Winter work went on in the shops. With the coming of Spring ground was broken outside and work has continued with little interruption till a few days before the close of the year, when a heavy fall of snow forced cessation. All granite work of the Fifth Avenue approach has been completed, except the setting of the low coping at the sidewalk; all coping stone is delivered on site; the balustrade on Fortieth Street side of Bryant Park approach has been completed, and on Forty-second Street it has been completed, except a few panels of the balustrade, which are delivered ready to set when weather moderates. All granite work on both comfort stations is complete, except the carving on the northwest station, which is half completed.

The west balustrade wall is set up to the coping line and about a quarter of the coping is set. All rough plumbing work under this contract is completed ready for connecting to the finished fixtures.

The rough grading and filling of the Fifth Avenue approach is completed; elsewhere it is about half done. All pits have been dug, the drains put in, and the top soil filling has been delivered ready for planting in the Spring.

All marble work for the Bryant monument facing Bryant Park has been erected complete up to the frieze line, and voussoirs of first arch on front have been turned; the remainder of the marble for the monument is completed and at yards ready for delivery.

Contract No. 10: Electric Power Plant. At the date of my last report the specifications for the electric generating plant were still in the hands of the chief engineer of the Finance Department of the city. Early in 1909 the matter was brought before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, and, after hearings on March 19 and 26, the specifications were approved subject to three conditions. These conditions were embodied in an agreement between the City and the Library entered into on May 12, which specified (1) that in case the cost of installing the generating plant should exceed $102,000, the Library was to pay such excess, (2) that the Library was to maintain and repair the plant when installed, (3) that in the agreement of December 8, 1897, whereby it is provided that "the City shall annually provide funds for the maintenance and repair of the building," the language shall be construed to mean the maintenance and repair of the building as such, excluding the electric generating plant and all furniture and movable equipment.

The specifications, drawings, and form of contract were approved by the Board of Estimate; bids were called for by the Park Department on October 1, and opened on October 21. At the meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment on November 19, authorization was given for award of the contract to the Lord Construction Company at its bid of $71,842.

Engines and dynamos have been ordered by the contractors, and work preparatory to installation has been begun. The contract period is one year, which would set the date of completion some time towards the end of 1910; but it is hoped that the contractor may be able to finish two or three months before that time.

Contract No. 11: Furniture and Equipment. At the date of my last report the data collected for this contract during the last two years were being put into shape and the specifications were being written. Specifications and drawings were submitted to the various City departments during the Spring of the year, and the contract was advertised on October 20. Bids were opened at the Park Department on November 18, 1909, that of T. D. Wadleton, amounting to $560,000, being the lowest. Before this bid was accepted a protest was filed with the Park Department by the Lanston Monotype Company, which protest was referred to the Corporation Counsel for an opinion and sustained by him on legal grounds. Alterations were made in the specifications, the contract was readvertised on December 11, and bids were opened at the Park Department on December 30. This time the bid of the Cobb Construction Company was lowest, being $543,750, Mr. Wadleton's revised bid being $544,700. Occurring at the end of the year as this did, no action was taken by the retiring Park Board or Board of Estimate and Apportionment, the matter of awarding the contract going over to the incoming boards for action in 1910.

READERS' DEPARTMENT.

During the calendar year of 1909 the number of readers and visitors entering the two reference branches was 256,912, of which 209,996 were recorded at ASTOR and 55,916 at LENOX. The daily average was 677.4 at ASTOR and 180 at LENOX. In 1908 the figures were 232,246 at ASTOR and 57,300 at LENOX, a total of 289,546, a daily average of 747 at ASTOR and 184 at LENOX.

The number of desk applicants during the period was 194,091, of which 178,746 were recorded at ASTOR and 15,345 at LENOX. This is a decrease of 18,610 (18,639 at ASTOR, less an increase of 29 at LENOX) from 1908, or 8 per cent. The daily average was 626.1 desk applicants (576.6 at ASTOR, 49.5 at LENOX).

The number of volumes consulted by these 194,091 desk applicants was 776,703, of which 698,384 were called for at ASTOR and 78,319 at LENOX. The daily average (310 days) was 2505.4 volumes (2252.8 at ASTOR, 252.6 at LENOX).

The above figures take no account of the volumes consulted by readers using the open reference shelves; these readers number about 5,000 per month at ASTOR and 1,000 at LENOX, and the count of volumes thus consulted would probably be at the rate of five or more per reader.

The decrease of 18,610 desk applicants (8.7 per cent.) represents a loss of 21,885 at ASTOR during the day (9 A. M. to 6 P. M.) or 11 per cent.; a gain of 3,246 at ASTOR during the evening (6 to 9 P. M.) or 11 per cent.; a total loss at ASTOR of 18,639 or 9.4 per cent.; a gain of 29 at LENOX (9 A. M. to 6 P. M.) or .12 per cent.

The totals, monthly and daily averages, and average number of volumes called for per reader are shown in the following table:

The largest number of desk applicants in any one month at LENOX was 1,624 in March, when 7,788 volumes were consulted; the smallest in any one month was 973 in July, 5,527 volumes being called for; the largest in any one day was 132 on March 31, the number of volumes consulted being 426; the smallest in any one day was 18, on September 25, the number of volumes consulted being 95.

At ASTOR the largest number of desk applicants for any one month was recorded in March, when 17,625 readers (13,824 by day, 3,441 by night) called for 65,368 volumes (46,382 day, 18,986 night).

The smallest number for any one month was in July when 11,311 readers (9,001 day, 2,310 night) called for 43,065 volumes (39,017 day, 4,048 night).

The largest number for any one day was on January 16 when 641 readers (536 day, 105 night) called for 3,384 volumes (2,832 day, 552 night).

The smallest number for any one day was on September 6, when 270 readers (216 day, 54 night) called for 1,250 volumes (1,054 day, 196 night).

Table I, appended, records the number and classes of volumes consulted at ASTOR and LENOX, the number of readers and visitors, etc., for the calendar year 1909.

SHELF DEPARTMENT.

The number of volumes received at the Library during 1909 was 28,297, of which 9,878 were purchases, 16,764 gifts, and 1,655 exchanges.

The number of pamphlets received during the same period was 70,007, of which 6,627 were purchases, 32,884 gifts, and 30,496 exchanges.

The number of volumes accessioned during the calendar year 1909 was 34,936, of pamphlets 12,003. Of this number 16,366 volumes and 2,921 pamphlets were purchased or were received on exchange account, and 18,570 volumes and 9,082 pamphlets were gifts.

The total number of volumes recorded as available for readers on December 31, 1909, was 793,854, and of pamphlets 295,078, a total of 1,088,932 pieces in the Reference Department. (From this figure should be deducted temporarily the 83,651 volumes and pamphlets boxed and stored in the cellar for lack of room.)

Reclassification during the year 1909 amounted to 679 volumes and 2 pamphlets, and was confined to routine work, no new groups being taken up.

Preparation of the subject index to our classification scheme has continued, progressing as far as "Scotland."

During 1909 outside binders bound 9,733 volumes and pamphlets; of this number 6,723 pieces were newly bound and 3,010 were repaired. This record does not include about 1,000 volumes bound abroad before importation.

At the ASTOR Branch 911 volumes and pamphlets were rebound or repaired in the bindery in the building, and 1,639 volumes and pamphlets needing slight repairing were cared for without sending to the bindery.

The number of volumes done up in manila paper at ASTOR was 8,334, and the number of volumes lettered was 12,983.

EXCHANGES.

Receipts on duplicate exchange account during 1909 were 1,655 volumes and 30,496 pamphlets; volumes sent out amounted to 3,937 and pamphlets to 4,425.

CATALOGUE DEPARTMENT.

During the calendar year 1909 the number of volumes newly catalogued was 20,167, and of pamphlets 19,163. In addition the cataloguing of 1,587 volumes and 800 pamphlets was continued or completed by additions to, or corrections of, entries already made. The number of volumes recatalogued for one reason or another was 1,711 and of pamphlets 720.

The number of serials, magazines, journals, etc., newly catalogued was 11,050, of which 4,120 were volumes and 6,930 pamphlets. In addition 15,022 volumes of serials and 13,480 pamphlets were catalogued by changing existing entries. 1,623 volumes of serials and 1,765 pamphlets were recatalogued.

The number of maps catalogued was 285.

The total number of volumes handled by the department was 44,230, and of pamphlets 42,858, making an aggregate of 87,088.

For the pieces above mentioned were written 45,230 cards for the various catalogues and 40,964 copy-slips for the duplicating machine. These copy-slips being multiplied to 181,264 cards for filing. Of this latter number 23,815 were sent to the Library of Congress. The number of cards that had entries changed in the process of recording new additions to works already on our shelves was 28,772.

The public index catalogue at ASTOR contains 1,195,715 cards. The official author catalogues contain 997,108 cards (general catalogue 588,388, serials 90,300, railways 5,990, documents 154,160, reports 32,880, Hebrew 58,800, Oriental 42,790, Russian 23,800).

For material stored away in boxes 30,000 cards have been withdrawn from the public catalogues at ASTOR.

The public catalogues at LENOX contain 384,520 cards (south hall 249,480, genealogies and local history 57,120, music 77,920). The official author catalogues contain 141,866 cards (incunabula 3,400, Americana 42,960, manuscripts 28,160, maps 25,920, prints 41,426).

The two public catalogues thus contain 1,580,235 cards, the official author catalogues in the two buildings contain 1,138,974 cards, a total of 2,719,209.

Revision of subject headings has continued at ASTOR, and we have begun a revision of the LENOX general subject headings to insure uniformity for combining the two public catalogues in the main catalogue room when we move into the new building.

PERIODICALS DEPARTMENT.

For the calendar year 1909 the number of readers filling out application blanks for current periodicals at ASTOR was 41,785; of periodicals consulted by them 264,257; this was a decrease of 2,721 readers and of 27,634 periodicals.

The daily average was 134 readers (103 day, 30 evening) and 852 periodicals (678 day, 174 evening); last year the average number of readers was 143, and of periodicals consulted 938.

The number of individual titles of current periodicals called for during 1909 was 71,386 (day 56,073, evening 15,313), as compared with 76,045 during 1908 (61,392 day, 14,653 evening), this count disregarding the number of individual issues called for or given out.

The distribution of these 71,386 titles called for in 1909 is as follows:

General 9,361; art, archæology, architecture, etc. 8,619; English and American literature 8,101; foreign literature 3,964; science 1,843; useful arts 21,996; law, economics, sociology, education, etc., 9,563; religion and philosophy 2,220; orientalia 117; Judaica 236; newspapers 4,224; natural history 105.

The library receives at this date 6,662 current periodicals, of which 3,958 are purchases, 2,441 are gifts and 263 exchanges for the BULLETIN. 133 of this total are daily papers, 939 weeklies, 210 semi-monthlies, 1,953 monthlies, 211 bi-monthlies, 748 quarterlies, 85 semi-annuals, 726 are annuals received by purchase, 1,430 of irregular periods of publication.

These 6,662 current periodicals represent a gross increase of 421 new titles, less a loss of 216 titles discontinued for various reasons, making a net increase of 205 over the 6,457 reported in 1908.

In further addition should be noted 9,548 annual publications received by gift, and 438 in exchange for the BULLETIN.

The total number of separate pieces of periodicals received during the year was 168,362, being a daily average of 543; these figures include quarterlies, monthlies, dailies, etc., and do not include annuals.

In exchange for the BULLETIN the Library receives a total of 701 periodicals, 289 of which are American annual publications, 149 are foreign annuals, and 263 American and foreign periodicals of greater frequency of publication than annual.

316 volumes of old periodicals were added during the year, completing important files.

Table II appended gives in detail a record of our current periodicals.

Indexing of 1,929 current periodicals (i. e. 1,929 different titles) is carried on (1,802 being done at ASTOR, and 127 at LENOX); of the ASTOR titles 27 are done for the American Library Association coöperative indexing.

From the publishing section of the A. L. A. we received 3,928 printed cards, representing the indexing of 218 periodicals, done jointly by this Library and the Boston Public Library, John Crerar Library and Harvard and Columbia University libraries.

DOCUMENTS DEPARTMENT.

During 1909 the documents department received 5,648 volumes, 5,913 pamphlets and 643 maps. It catalogued 9,200 volumes, 6,314 pamphlets, and 52 maps. For this cataloguing 7,932 cards were written and 4,327 slips for the copying machine, these latter being multiplied on the machine to 18,122 cards.

A detailed statement of the progress of the department during the last twelve years is given in the following report by Miss Adelaide R. Hasse, who has been chief of the documents department since it was established:

DR. JOHN S. BILLINGS,
Director, New York Public Library.

DEAR SIR:

The Document Department of the New York Public Library is now twelve years old.

There is no means of knowing the number of documents in the Library at the time of the organization of the Department. The aggregate additions from June 1, 1897 to December 31, 1909, have been 231,956 pieces. Ten thousand volumes would probably have covered the documents in the Library before June 1, 1897. They comprised, at that time, a file of United States federal documents, then numbering about 3,000 volumes, a fair file of the documents of the states of the United States, a file of the British Parliamentary Papers from 1816, a continuous file of Hansard and its predecessors, a file of the Journal Officiel from 1789, the beginnings of a good file of British colonial documents, a file of the various collections of treaties, and a very fragmentary file of statutes. In addition there were the great British, French, German, Spanish, and Portuguese series of calendars and of reprints of state papers.

From the first no attempt was made to collect documents as such, but rather to make the collection representative of certain subjects. These subjects are national and local administration, international affairs, sociology and economics. No effort has, for instance, ever been made by the Library to strengthen its collection of statutory law.

Within the subjects cited, the Library is collecting the documents of both federal and local governments, as well as those of municipalities, of this and of other countries. The collection is made by means of exchange with other libraries, by gifts, and by purchase.

How well, on the whole, these combined processes have operated, may be gathered from the fact that in 1898 the document collection comprised 3% of the entire number of books in the reference library, whereas at the end of 1909 it comprises 20%. The increase in percentage was greatest in the years from 1900 to 1905, when it rose from 6% in 1900 to 20% in 1905, which is the ratio that has been regularly maintained since then. During these five years of greatest growth 131,000 pieces were added, or an average of 26,000 pieces per annum.

It is needless to say that this growth was not spontaneous. It was the outcome of a systematic effort to build up the collection along the lines indicated. The absence of any medium announcing the publication of official literature entailed some research before even the titles of the documents which the Library wished to secure, could be ascertained.

When the documents began coming in a great amount of clerical labor was required to make them available for the shelves. This was done through the catalogue and the printing of special lists. There are at present some 154,160 cards in the official document catalogue. The special lists which have been published are as follows: Check lists of municipal documents in the Library (1899), of federal documents (1899), administrative reports (1899), United States and state legislative proceedings (1903); want lists of European legislative proceedings

(1901), American municipal documents (1901); and the following subject lists: New York State Boundary (BULLETIN, v. 4), Northeastern Boundary (ib. v. 4), Foreign documents relating to Finance (ib. v. 5), American documents relating to Finance (ib. v. 6), New York Colonial Documents (ib. v. 7), Constitutions (ib. v. 8), Banks and Banking (ib. v. 12), Mexico (ib. v. 12), Balkan States and Eastern Question (ib. v. 13).

It should be stated that the Library itself has never engaged in any special propaganda to promote the use of its documents beyond the publication of lists and indices. On the other hand, since the Document Department of this Library was established, the Library of Congress has organized a similar department, the States of Wisconsin, New York, Indiana, California and the cities of Baltimore and Milwaukee have established Legislative Reference Departments, and California, Indiana, Texas, and New York have begun publishing current lists, or reviews, of the state documents issued by them. The Ohio State University, in its catalogue, announces a course of lectures on Documents as reference material. At the coming session at Brussels, in August, 1910, the subject of Indexes and Catalogues of official documents has a place on the program.

Even though the Document Department of this Library has been conducted simply as one of several departments of a great reference library, it may not be without interest to review the extent to which the Library has been enabled, thus far, to build up the collection.

Beginning with national, local and municipal administration, the condition, in general, of the collection is as follows. The United States federal documents are complete from 1817 and the journals from 1789. The journals of the Continental Congress cover the period, but are not bibliographically complete. The Library has a very good file of federal contemporaneously printed documents from 1789 to 1817. During these years these documents were not bound into volumes, as at present, by the Government. In the absence of a definitive checklist it is not possible to say how far the Library's file is complete. Not long before the close of his administration President Roosevelt appointed a commission to inquire, among other allied subjects, into the propriety of reprinting such of these early documents as have lasting historical value. The commission made a report, and a bill (H. R. 15428) is now pending, carrying an appropriation for the permanent establishment of the commission.

The Library's collection of American state journals and executive documents numbers at present some 8,000 volumes, excluding the departmental reports. Some states are more fully represented than others owing to the lack of uniformity in provisions for printing and distributing these documents. Those of California are complete from 1855, those of Georgia begin in 1808, of Illinois in 1820, Ohio in 1808, Kentucky in 1823, Massachusetts in 1830, New York in 1789, Indiana in 1816, Iowa in 1848, Kansas in 1862, Wisconsin in 1836, Pennsylvania in 1801, South Carolina in 1831, Virginia in 1776, etc.

The collection of contemporary editions of American colonial laws and journals places the Library among the foremost depositories of this branch of Americana.

It may not be out of place here to refer to an Index of American state documents, now in course of publication by the Carnegie Institution of Washington, in particular as the Index is to a large extent based on the material in this Library.

In the case of American municipal documents the Library has been fairly successful, the collection at present representing some 976 cities. The collection of the documents of New York City, 1832, and first contemporaneously printed, to date, has been almost entirely made in the past twelve years. The San Francisco documents are complete from 1859, those of Boston from 1853, those of Chicago from 1870, those of St. Louis from 1859, Cleveland from 1874, Indianapolis from 1891, Philadelphia from 1857 and Baltimore from 1869.

The Library has been particularly fortunate in building up its collection of Canadian documents. The sessional papers and journals of the Dominion are now without a break from 1841 (province 1841-66, dominion 1867 to date), those of the Province of Ontario from 1868, of the Province of Quebec, with exception of a few breaks, from 1867, of Nova Scotia from 1844, of British Columbia from 1872, of Manitoba from 1871, of New Brunswick from 1878, and of Newfoundland from 1855.

The parliamentary papers of Great Britain are complete from 1806, with the exception of a few breaks between 1806 and 1816. This collection, to be complete, should begin in 1801. The Commons journals are complete from 1547. It has, unfortunately, not been possible, as yet, to complete the file of Lords journals. The file is continuous from 1509 to 1861, when there is a break to 1894. Of the Irish Commons journals the Library has volumes 9 to 29 (1751-1792), and of the Lords volumes 1-2, 4-6 and 8 (1634-1800). Of the administrative reports of British cities the Library has a particularly good collection, representing at present some 283 cities in England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, the provinces and the colonies.

None of the continental countries binds up its administrative and departmental reports, as does Great Britain and the United States, although certain of these reports in the case of Italy, the Netherlands, France, and Sweden are included as appendices to the legislative proceedings. Of the latter the Library has those of France from 1789, Spain 1834, Italy 1848, Netherlands 1814, Belgium 1858, German Empire 1867, Austria (Abgeordnetenhaus 1873, Herrenhaus 1869), Denmark 1866, Sweden 1868, and Norway 1900.

Not to be misleading, it should be remarked that the dates here given represent only the files since their inception in their present form, and that the Library has many documents of these countries antedating the collected documents as they exist at present. Thus the Library has the "Resolutien" of the Kingdom of Holland and Friesland from 1563-1795 in 35 folio volumes, the "Groot Placcaatboek," 1658-1746, in 9 volumes, "Hollands Placcaet-Boeck," 1645, in 3 volumes, "Nederlandsche Placcaet-Boeck," 1644 in 2 volumes, and many hundreds of contemporaneously printed ordonnantien, resolutien, placcaeten of the Kingdom from 1563 to 1795, and of Utrecht 1587-1796, Friesland 1627-1795, Gelderland 1617-1765, and of Groningen 1610-1748.

The early contemporary documents of France begin with the reign of Francis I. and comprise a very large number of édits, ordonnances, arrêts, reglements, déclarations, instructions, letters patentes, mémoires and rappports.

The earliest British contemporary documents in the Library are the 1534 edition of "Magna Carta" and the acts of 33 Henry VIII., 1542.

The earliest Spanish contemporary document in the Library is the "Pragmaticas" of Ferdinand and Isabella printed in Salamanca in 1503. From the reign of Philip II. to that of the ruling sovereign every regnal period is represented by contemporaneously printed official material. The great collections of reprints made by the Real Academia de la Historia have already been alluded to as being in the Library.

In eastern Europe the Balkan states are very satisfactorily represented as follows: The Bulgarian Sobranje from 1886, the Servian Skupshtina from 1861, the Croatian Sabor from 1861, the Grecian Boulé from 1885, the Rumanian Parliament from 1861 and the East Rumelian Sobranje from 1879 to 1884, the whole period of its existence. Russia is still, comparatively, very poorly represented. In 1908 some 636 Russian documents were received through the interested efforts of Miss Isabel F. Hapgood and Count Mikhail Mikhailovitch Perovsky-Petrovo-Solovovo. The Library is also receiving currently the proceedings of the Finnish Valtiopäivät from the time when the reform constitution of 1906 went into effect.

The best representation of continental local government proceedings is that of Italy and the Netherlands, although there are isolated instances of other countries, the Department de la Seine, for instance, which make a very liberal showing.

The collection of Atti of the Italian "consiglie provinciale" has been pronounced by an Italian expert as probably the finest outside of Italy. It comprises in addition to shorter files of "Atti," those of Cuneo since 1860, of Catania, Pavia, Umbria, and Bergamo since 1861, of Ancona, Como, Ferrara, Florence, Livorno, Palermo, Parma, Piacenza, Padua, and Cagliari since 1862, of Bologna, Calabria, Genoa, Modena, Naples, Novara, and Ravenna since 1863, of Turin since 1864, of Arezzo, Siracusa, and Pisa since 1865, of Padua, Venezia, and Verona since 1867, of Udine since 1869, and of Rome, Milan, Siena, and Vicenza since 1870.

The collection of Dutch local documents, consisting of notulen, verslagen, provincialbladen and jaarboekjen, is distributed among the several "Provintien" as follows: Drenthe and Friesland from 1860, Gelderland from 1864 ("Provincialblad" from 1815), Groningen from 1814, Noordbrabant from 1861, Overijssel from 1857, Utrecht from 1853, Zeeland from 1837, and Zuidholland from 1892.

In the collection of continental municipal administrative reports 380 different cities are represented, almost one third, viz. 112, of them being German cities. Countries represented by more than 20 cities are the following: Italy 53, France 51, Netherlands 44, Spain 41, and Austria 29. The German municipal reports are, as a rule, much more elaborately prepared than those of American cities, being frequently embellished with cuts and plans of various civic improvements and undertakings. If the Library had facilities for the display of these illustrations, the exhibit would make suggestive material for persons interested in city planning enterprises. The following cities are most fully represented in this collection of Verwaltungsberichte and Haushaltsetate, viz., Aachen from 1896, Augsburg from 1896, Bamberg from 1869, Barmen from 1892, Berlin (Gemeindeblatt from 1899, Stenographische Berichte der Stadtverwaltungs Versammlung from volume 3, 1876), Bielefeld from 1897, Breslau from 1889, Bromberg from 1880, Cassel from 1896, Charlottenburg from 1898, Chemnitz from 1900, Dantzig from 1898, Dresden from 1882, Düsseldorf from 1897, Duisburg from 1897, Eisenach from 1899, Frankfurt a. M. from 1837, Halle from 1872, Hanau from 1895, Iserlohn from 1897, Karlsruhe from 1899, Lübeck from 1884 (Sammlung Lübecksche Gesetze from v. 1, 1813), Lüneberg from 1899, Magdeburg from 1898, München from 1895, Quedlinburg from 1895, Schweidnitz from 1897, Stettin from 1899, Stuttgart from 1872, Wiesbaden from 1875, and Würzburg from 1889.

From time to time the Library has purchased volumes of old municipal statuti and Verordnungen of Italian and German cities. Omitting reprints the Library has at present 48 volumes of Italian municipal ordinances antedating the eighteenth century, viz., 26 of the sixteenth, 12 of the seventeenth, and 10 of the eighteenth centuries. This is, of course, but a very small portion of such documents, as listed by Manzoni, but as these volumes are procurable only from secondhand dealers and as they appear in the market infrequently, it makes the matter of collecting them a slow process. Of similar ordinances of German cities the Library has 28 contemporary volumes, viz., 3 of the sixteenth, 9 of the seventeenth and 16 of the eighteenth centuries.

In the South American collection of administrative reports there is still much to be desired. Brazil, Chile, and Argentina are, in the experience of this Library, the foremost of the South American states in appreciation of the advantage of depositing their reports where the public of the North American metropolis may have access to them. Through efforts of friends of the Library it has been possible to make additions of value to departmental reports of these and other states which will be referred to below.

Having described in a very general way the main features of the collection of national and local administrative reports, a word should be said on the other main branches of the Document Department, viz., International Affairs and Economics and Sociology.

In the former of these branches belong collections of international documents, collections of treaties, single treaties, international arbitration tribunals, congresses, conferences, commissions and councils, the reports of the various ministries of foreign affairs, and accounts of embassies and memoirs of ambassadors. This is perhaps a little more comprehensive than is generally conceded by bibliographies of international law, which include, as a rule, in addition to text books and treatises, only the treaties and possibly the arbitration proceedings.

Of collections of treaties the Library has a very good file, the titles of them being sufficiently well known to permit their omission here. The most comprehensive collections of international documents are the "British and Foreign State Papers," the "Staatsarchiv" and the "Archives Diplomatiques," of each of which the Library has a complete file. The collection of single treaties in the Library is quite unusual. The earliest original print is that of the Pacification of Ghent, 1576, and from that time to 1909 there are no less than 1,200 separate issues of single treaties.

The first treaty ever published in England, by authority, was the treaty between England and Spain, concluded on the part of England by Sir Robert Cecil, the first Lord Salisbury, in 1604. A copy of this treaty in pamphlet form, printed in 1604, is in the Library. Before this time, it had been dangerous for private persons in England to publish treaties with foreign powers, for the act was likely to be construed as meddling with matters of state and to be punished as an infringement of prerogative.

This collection of early original prints of single treaties assumes importance when it is remembered that the general collections did not make their appearance until the eighteenth century, and that they are by no means uniform in printing the entire text of a treaty.

In addition to these treaties the Library has a fair file of reports of ministries of foreign affairs, and of the "blue books," popularly known in England as "Blue Books," "Livres Jaunes" in France, "Livros Brancos" in Portugal, "Libros Verdes" in Italy, "Libros Rojos" in Spain, "Weissbuch" in Germany, and "Rothbuch" in Austria. Of such British blue books as were printed for distribution the Library has a complete file, of the French "Documents diplomatiques (livres jaunes)" the Library has a file from 1860, of the Portuguese "Negocios externos (livros brancos)" from 1882, of the Spanish "Documentos diplomaticos (libros rojos)" from 1880 and of the Italian "Documenti diplomatici (libros verdes)" from 1880.

The United States began publishing annual volumes of diplomatic correspondence in 1861, all of which are in the Library. Some years ago Hon. John L. Cadwalader presented to the Library a collection of 112 volumes of United States congressional documents and reports on foreign affairs from 1809 to 1898. The Library also owns a detailed manuscript index of the diplomatic documents of the United States from 1828 to 1861. In this connection it may be mentioned that the Library also has a full file of the Senate executive journal which contains the minutes of proceedings on all treaty negotiations, and which is printed in such a small edition as to render it quite uncommon.

One of the most troublesome items for the collector of official material is that of arbitration proceedings. The authorities and writers on the subject are, in the first place, at variance as to the classification of such proceedings. Prof. J. B. Moore ("One Hundred Years of American Diplomacy") states the number of arbitrations in the 19th century to be 136, Darby (International Arbitrations) instances 471, Fried (Peace Movement) enumerates 200, and La Fontaine (Arbitrations Internationaux) 177. Even should the collector accept the lowest number, the often obscurely or semi-confidentially printed proceedings make it extremely difficult to obtain a record of them. Checked up with Prof. Moore's list, the collection of arbitration proceedings makes a tolerably good showing, for a beginning, but it is hoped that in time and with care this very important file may be considerably augmented.

Coming to the last mentioned of the main divisions of the Document Department, viz., Economics and Sociology, it is feared that the subject and the space remaining are entirely incompatible. In the general classification of economics and sociology adopted by the Library, each of the sub-classes—transportation, taxation, banking, finance, insurance, labor, vital statistics, etc.,—has been provided with a special notation for the respective government series on each of these subjects. Certain of these sub-classes have grown to such proportions that it has become impossible to keep them intact in the regularly assigned places, and overflow groups have had to be arranged in the annexes.

It is not possible to give an adequate idea here of the extent of the Library's resources in government reports on sociology and economics, without going into more detail than is desirable. By far the greater part of the document accessions go to these subjects. Owing to the diverse customs obtaining in different states, using the word in the largest sense, in the distribution of their administrative functions, no shelf classification nor any catalogue will ever be an absolute medium for making documentary material in sociology and economics available. Suppose, for instance, as has happened, a reader wants to know what American states publish lists of corporations chartered. The majority of states publish such lists in the reports of the officer authorized to collect the franchise fees. In the greater number of such cases that officer is either the secretary of state or one of the fiscal agents. The reports of none of these officers would have any remote association with corporations, either on the shelf or in the catalogue, in the ordinary course of events.

Another patent instance is the great statistical series of the German, Slavic, and Scandinavian countries. These series are the repository of the annual economic and sociological reports published by these governments.

It is clear that there is a large quantity of sought-after material lying idle for want of some method of more exact display than that at present in common use by librarians. The subject is one engaging the attention of economists and statisticians. It was made a matter of reference by Sir Charles Dilke in his presidential address before the Royal Statistical Society in 1907, and has for some years been up before the International Institute of Statistics.

The use of this material is steadily increasing. The demand comes largely from specialists and is for specific information. This is more particularly the case during the winter months, when business and the publishing enterprises are active, and this fact shows a vital relation between the Library and the industrial life of this great city. In the summer months the demand comes more largely from students who give weeks and sometimes months to working up material from the documents.

The Library has had several important gifts which should be referred to in this connection. Some years ago a portion of the collection of the late Hon. Simon Sterne came into the possession of the Library, and with it many documents on transportation, which aided materially in strengthening this subject. More recently the Hon. Elihu Root presented some 400 volumes of United States documents so arranged as to exhibit the progress of government in the American extraterritorial dependencies.

Owing to overcrowding it has become necessary, pending removal into the new building, to store away many thousands of volumes, among them government reports. It is hoped that a release of these books may be effected at no distant day.

Very respectfully,

ADELAIDE R. HASSE,

Chief, Documents Department.

ORIENTAL DEPARTMENT.

The catalogue of the department now contains 42,790 cards. For current catalogue work were written 6,591 cards, and additions were made to 760 cards already written. Accessions amounted to 1,620 pieces, giving a total of 13,126 pieces in the department.

The most important addition was the collection of books relating to China, purchased from Wilberforce Eames, over 1,200 volumes in number, giving us a representative selection of works in Chinese as well as modern books about China.

During the absence of Professor Richard Gottheil, the Chief of the Department, who is spending the year in Jerusalem at the head of the American School for Oriental Study and Research in Palestine, Dr. Louis H. Gray is giving part of his time to the work of the department. It is hoped that with his help we shall finish the cataloguing of the Anandasrama Sanskrit series, the Benares Sanskrit series, and the Bombay Sanskrit series.

The indexing of the earlier numbers of the "Journal of the Royal Asiatic Society" and the "Zeitschrift der Deutschen Morgenländischen Gesellschaft" has been finished, and the indexing of the "Journal Asiatique," of which we have a set complete from its beginning in 1822, is in progress. For this indexing one subject card is written for the general public catalogue and a subject and an author card for the special catalogue of the Oriental department.

HEBREW DEPARTMENT.

The number of volumes and pamphlets credited to the department is now about 16,400, Mr. A. S. Freidus, chief of the department, reports that the readers number about 40 per day and call for about 95 volumes. The special catalogue of the collection contains about 58,800 cards.

Through the generosity of Mr. Jacob H. Schiff we have been able to continue our purchases for this department, which would not be possible, at least to so large an extent as at present, without the special fund provided by Mr. Schiff.

It has been our policy to build up, besides a representative collection covering the entire field, a more extensive collection of the literature of the nineteenth century in its various branches, including especially the modern editions of ancient Hebrew works; the philological, exegetical, theological, and historical works, mainly in modern languages, that are sometimes termed "The Science of Judaism;" modern Hebrew and Yiddish literature; and periodicals and newspapers published in Hebrew, Yiddish, and non-Semitic languages, expressing Jewish thought and devoted to the interests of the Jews and of Judaism in most countries of the world.

SLAVONIC DEPARTMENT.

For the year 1909 additions to the Slavonic department amounted to 1,240 volumes and 310 pamphlets, bringing the total record of pieces in the department to 12,537.

Volumes catalogued amounted to 792, pamphlets to 283, articles indexed to 806. For this work were written 3,304 white cards and 720 slips for the copying machine; additions were made to the entries on 186 cards already written. The number of cards in the catalogue on December 31, 1909, was 23,800.

The number of readers recorded was 14,651 by day and 3,625 at night, making a total of 18,276 (against 30,973 in 1908). The average per month was 1,523 (against 2,581 in 1908), 1,220 day and 302 night readers. One of the reasons for the decrease in the number of readers in the Slavonic department is the withdrawal of the daily newspapers from general consultation. An improved labor market may also account for it.

These 18,276 readers called for 28,127 volumes.

The most important of our additions in Russian literature were: Collected works of Kravchinski (Stepnyak), Maikov, May, Ibsen, Poe, Dickens, Kipling; the fiction of Artzybashev and Hippus; the poetry of Balmont; dramas by Dyachenko and Kryukovski; the periodicals "Priroda i Lyudi," "Teatr i Iskusstvo," "Russko-Amerikanskoe Echo," "Russkoe Znaniye," "Vestnik Znaniya."

For the Polish section the most important accessions consisted of works by Brodzinski, Przybyszewski, Konopnicka, the Teatr Zapskoi, Zulawski, Kalinka, and the Polish dictionary (Sownik) in 24 parts.

In Bulgarian literature the most important additions were: 45 volumes of drama, 75 miscellaneous volumes, the periodicals "Bolgarska Sbirka," and the "Sbornik za Narodni Umotvoreniya, Nauka i Knizhnina."

In Servian literature the most important additions were the periodicals "Letopis" and "Knige Matitze."

In Lettish literature we added 75 volumes of fiction and drama.

It may be of interest to note that the books most in demand in the Slavonic department are the works of Andreyev, Artzybashev, Gorki, Tolstoi, Kuprin and Stepnyak, and works on the drama and the social sciences.

PRINT DEPARTMENT.

During 1909 accessions amounted to 2,025 pieces. The total number of prints thus recorded is now 70,310 (51,617 in the general collection, 18,693 in the Avery collection). In addition, there are also 116,035 pieces in shape of duplicates, cuttings from magazines, etc., uncatalogued and unaccessioned but arranged by subject for consultation.

Of the accessions during the year about 1,500 pieces were purchased from a fund made available for the purpose, and the selections for these purchases were made by Mr. Junius S. Morgan, to whom the thanks of the Library are due for his valuable expert assistance in this direction.

The print room was visited by 1,766 persons for consultation of prints, 3,438 volumes and 3,145 portfolios and boxes being used by them. 69 volumes and 3 prints were sent to the general reading room for the use of readers.

The catalogue of the department contains 41,426 cards.

A detailed statement of the progress of the print room since its establishment in 1900 is made in the report of Mr. Weitenkampf, curator of prints, hereto appended.

DR. J. S. BILLINGS,

Director, New York Public Library.

DEAR SIR:

In accordance with your direction, I have the honor to submit herewith a statement regarding the print department of this Library.

Founding and Purpose.

Before the end of the year 1899, New York City possessed no print room such as one finds in many large cities,—Paris, London, Berlin, Vienna, Amsterdam, Haarlem, Rome, Prague, Washington and Boston, for example.

In December 1899, the Board of Trustees of the New York Public Library resolved "that there be established a department called the department of prints, and that the executive committee be requested to make provision therefor." Pending completion of the new building at Fifth Ave. and 42d St., in which special and ample accommodation for this department was provided, the print room was located in the Lenox Library Building, a fire-proof structure, two rooms being set apart for purposes of study, while the gallery on the upper floor as well as the lower entrance hall were made available for exhibitions.

As a basis for a print collection the library had the remarkable private collection of the late Samuel P. Avery, received shortly after it had been determined to enter on this new phase of the Library's work, as well as a considerable number of prints, both separate and in numerous extra-illustrated volumes, which had come to it in former years with the Lenox, Duyckinck, Bancroft, Emmet, Tilden and Ford collections. The material in the Avery collection well served the prime function of a print room,—the preservation of representative examples of the reproductive graphic arts of engraving, etching and lithography, in order to provide opportunity for the study of those arts,—while the other collections referred to consisted mainly of portraits and other historical prints, many of them valuable, primarily of documentary interest as material for historical illustration. Thus, from the very beginning, the two-fold possibility of usefulness and interest was strongly emphasized. The new department of prints was therefore conceived in the broadest sense of the term.

The Avery Collection.

The main idea underlying the formation of the Avery Collection, numbering about 19,000 pieces, was the illustration of the arts of etching and lithography in the 19th century, particularly in France. The collector occasionally was led into by-paths: there are, for example, a particularly fine set of Turner's "Liber Studiorum," about 1,600 plates by Chodowiecki, etchings by J. P. Norblin, and the series of 100 line engravings issued by the Société Française de Gravure. But the field covered was mainly and essentially that above indicated, and it was covered in the spirit of the general survey as well as in that of the special collector. That is to say, a large number of the lesser lights are represented, each by a few characteristic works, to indicate style and tendencies, while the more noted etchers can be studied each in a much larger number of prints. There are here collections of the etched work of Jacque, Rajon, Bracquemond, Flameng, Buhot, Whistler, Haden, Jacquemart, Millet, Daubigny, Meryon, Chauvel, Cassatt, Israels, Delâtre, LeRat, Martial, Veyrassat, Courty, Chaplin, Goeneutte, Guerard, Mauve, Bodmer, Zilcken and others, which, in not a few cases, it would be impossible to duplicate in any public collection, here or abroad. Similarly, in the lithographs we pass through the different phases and aspects of the art imposed by various personalities such as Fantin-Latour, Gavarni, Raffet, Isabey, Menzel, Lunois, Daumier. It has been authoritatively pointed out that in its field—that is, for the period covered—this collection is unsurpassed by any European one.

Other Donations.

Gradually, the collection was enriched by other gifts. The late Charles Stewart Smith gave the collection of Japanese prints formed by Capt. Brinkley, the late C. B. Curtis nearly a thousand engravings after Raphael, the late Alexander Maitland an interesting lot of prints relating to the South Sea Bubble, Joseph Pennell over 900 lithographs illustrating the history of the art, and Mrs. Cyrus J. Lawrence a notably large collection of lithographs by Daumier.

Further noteworthy gifts came from George A. Lucas, Frederic Keppel (about 350 modern etchings), Mrs. Henry Draper, R. H. Lawrence, Howard Mansfield, John L. Cadwalader, Atherton Curtis, the late Frederic Sheldon, W. F. Havemeyer, Mrs. Schuyler Van Rensselaer, John Bigelow, E. G. Kennedy, E. L. Knoedler (reproductive etchings), James D. Smillie (American line engravings), T. R. Sugden, E. C. Bement, The Society of Iconophiles, the Century Co., and Charles Scribner's Sons. A general interest is indicated by the foregoing list, which includes individuals, associations and firms, and which represents quite varied tastes and purposes.

Artists as Donors.

Individual artists have aided in building up the Library's collection of modern work, by presenting examples of their own. Such are C.

Storm van 'sGravesande, Th. Molkenboer, L. Delteil, A. Prunaire, L. Pissarro, T. Frantisek Simon, Vojt Preissig, F. G. Stevenson, Hedwig von Lekow. Especially has this been the case with American artists.

American Work.

From the beginning, attention was turned to the acquisition of prints by Americans. In the words of the Director: "It is desired that this print room shall contain as complete a collection as possible of the results of the graphic arts as practiced in America, including engravings of all kinds, etchings, lithographs, original drawings, photographs of such drawings, etc., and American artists are respectfully requested to contribute specimens of their work for this purpose."

As a result, the Library has received through artists or their representatives a large collection of American prints. Line engravers such as A. B. Durand, James Smillie, J. W. Cheney, Charles Burt, Alfred Jones, are very well represented, the first two with a noteworthy approach to completeness. The last statement holds good also with regard to E. D. French and J. W. Spenceley among later men who applied this art of the line to the production of bookplates. Alexander Anderson, the father of American wood-engraving, may be studied in several thousand proofs. The group of wood engravers who brought their art to a remarkable degree of achievement in the last quarter of the 19th century, makes a fine showing, a remarkable one in the case of Juengling (about 450 proofs), Cole and Kingsley. Nearly all the engravers of this school are well or adequately represented, however. Incidentally, their work also forms an interesting contribution to the records of book-illustration, in which specialty F. O. C. Darley played a prominent part; the Library's collection of drawings by him and engravings after his designs is a noteworthy one. The fascinating art of etching, with an intimate charm at its best, is represented by nearly all who have practiced it in this country, both the older men as well as those identified with the recent revival of the art. Lithography, practiced all too little, is also adequately illustrated.

There is, therefore, a foundation of modern work.

Exhibitions.

It was necessary, however, to awaken New York to the fact that a beginning had really been made, and the best way to accomplish this was by arranging exhibitions. Thereby, at the same time, the resources of the department were brought to the attention of the public.

The opening exhibition consisted of a selection of plates from Turner's "Liber Studiorum," of which the Library possesses a fine set in the Avery Collection. Following this there came: Japanese prints (Charles Stewart Smith Collection) ; Artistic Portraits ; American Wood Engravings ; Millet, Rousseau and Daubigny ; American Etchings ; Etchings, Lithographs and Wood Engravings by Modern German Artists ; Arundel Society Color Prints ; Prints by Modern Dutch Artists ; Modern French Line Engravings ; Historical Exhibition of Painter-Lithography ; Animals in Black-and-White ; Danish Etchings ; Prints by Modern Bohemian Artists ; Book-Plates.

A number of exhibitions have been devoted each to the work of one artist : Whistler, J. Alden Weir, R. F. Blum, R. Swain Gifford, L. M. Yale, Carrière, Camille Pissarro, A. Lalauze, Raffet, Isabey, Richter, Schwind, Rossetti, Meissonier, Menzel, Jacquemart, Fantin-Latour, Bracquemond, E. D. French, J. W. Spenceley, A. Prunaire, Ozias Dodge, Joseph Pennell, E. Kingsley.

A few loan exhibitions have been held : One illustrating the history of engraving to the beginning of the 18th century and one of Rembrandt's etched work, both from the collection of Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan ; one of British Mezzotints (a notable exhibition and one of the best ever seen) ; the A. A. Hopkins collection of the photographs of Italian paintings ; the E. Colonna collection of Japanese albums.

Thus, exhibitions of prints per se were diversified so as to respond to a great variety of tastes.

But the subject-interest has also been considered in the planning of exhibitions. Various subjects of historical or literary interest, often brought to the fore by the centenary of some event, have occasioned exhibits which have been justified by the attention which they attracted. Such were those devoted to French caricatures of the Franco-German war, New York City, Champlain, Victor Hugo, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Presidential Campaigns, Milton, Franklin, John Paul Jones, Lincoln, Washington Irving, and the Hudson-Fulton exhibit, among others.

Use.

The use of the print room has gradually but surely increased. It has been perfectly free, with certain proper restrictions which have in no wise proven onerous. Lovers of the graphic arts have been drawn here as a matter of course, art students and artists have found opportunity to study technical methods, instructors have been enabled to emphasize their points to students more clearly by having excellent examples at hand. The richness of the collection in certain directions has made it useful and frequently indispensable in the preparation of special publications, both here and abroad,—the definitive catalogues of Whistler's etchings, the publications of Loys Delteil, Gustave Bourcard and E. Moreau-Nelaton in France, and of others in England and Holland. It was foresight indeed that could achieve the feat of making fuller collections of certain artists' work than can be found in their native land.

The Director of the Library, in proposing the establishment of the department, said: "A good representative collection of prints is of more interest and use to the public in general and to the great majority of those specially interested in prints in particular, if it exists in immediate connection with a large library In the library it can be closely associated with the literature of art,—an association which is absolutely necessary to obtain the full benefit of each, and it is also available for the student of social history, of the manners, customs, costumes, etc., of a particular place or period, in connection with the literature of those subjects."

The print room was administered from the first with practical library methods, adapted to the work in hand, and possibilities of usefulness in the print were ever kept in view. All works of art directly or indirectly form material for social history. Thus, the many calls for portraits, views, costumes, historical scenes, and the many other possible pictorial illustrations have been met, often with the best material in the department.

Numerous private collectors are interested particularly in the subject of the print and acquire portraits of certain individuals (Washington, Napoleon, Franklin, Milton), sporting prints, views of a given locality (New York City, for instance), costume plates, coaches, illustrations of United States history, to name but a few possibilities. Some such collections have already found their way to this Library.

Strength and Weakness of the Collection.

It is apparent that this print department has been fairly strong in modern work and very weak in old prints. The few of the latter to be found here only accentuated the absence of the rest: Marc Antonio Raimondi's copies of Dürer's Life of the Virgin (R. L. Kennedy collection), some Ostades, the Chodowiecki plates which happen to form part of the Avery Collection, or some Hollars given by Mrs H. Draper.

In the Summer of 1909, however, the sum of $20,000 (one-half set aside by the Library, the remainder privately contributed) was made available for the purchase of prints, and was used in the acquisition of about 1,500 prints selected by Mr. Junius S. Morgan, mostly by minor or unfamiliar artists, but all repaying study. Mr. Morgan decided not to attempt to procure the most famous prints (Rembrandts, say, or Dürers), which would soon have exhausted available funds. The purchase included examples by various masters of Germany, the Lowlands, France and Italy, of the 15th and 16th centuries, notably Aldegrever (36 prints), Altdorfer (45), Beham (56), Dürer (8), Pencz (3), Cranach (30), Schongauer (4), M. Z. (3), Ostade (19), Goltzius (8), Leyden (10), Bakhuizen (12), Bosse (7), Lutma (4), Waterloo (7), Callot (119), Delaune (30), Mellan (1), Hollar (630), Marc Antonio Raimondi (14), Mantegna (1), Rosa (60), Du Jardin (10) Luyderhoef (4), Teniers (2), Berghem (6), Dusart (1), Nicoletto de Modena (1), Jan Van der Hecke (11), Van Meckenen (2). It is hoped that these prints will form a nucleus for future additions of work of the old masters.

There were also about 140 proofs, many before letters, of those line engravings of the late 18th and early 19th centuries, in which burinists of note such as Morghen, Volpato, Gandolfi, Toschi, Foster, Doo, Mandel and Boucher-Desnoyers translated into black-and-white paintings by masters of the Italian school. With the Lenox collection there had already come a number of such prints, as well as good examples of the later English "framing prints" of the Victorian age. Views of chateaux and gardens, from the Calcographie du Louvre, farther illustrate the art of line engraving.

Wants: Old Prints.

The weak points of the collection stand out clearly. A good beginning has been made, so that an appeal for an active interest in the farther development of the collection is fully justified and rests on good foundation.

In the first place, then, etchers, great and minor, should be found here: Rembrandt above all; Claude Lorraine, Lievens, Bol, Ruysdael, Everdingen, Van de Velde, Tiepolo, Boissieu, Canaletto.

Similarly the greatest and great masters of line engraving: Dürer, Leyden, Mantegna, Marc Antonio Raimondi, Marco de Ravenna, Campagnola, Goltzius. And the brilliant Frenchmen Nanteuil, the Drevets, Edelinck, Masson, Wille, Schmidt. Then, for their historic interest, the early men who first subdued copper and wood as reproductive media, and those immediately following them: Master of 1464, Master E. S. of 1466, Master of the Playing Cards, Master of the Garden of Love, Israel van Meckenen, Schongauer, Lautensack. Many names come to mind, not all prominent, but each standing for a personality of interest: Soutman, Schelte à Bolswaert, Sadeler, Cornelis Visscher, the Wierixes, Saenredam, Gheyn, and in France Le Bas, Flipart and the other interpreters of the gay 18th century. Furthermore, the early English line engravers, and those later three notable: Strange, Sharp and Woollett.

Another important group is that of the renowned English mezzotinters,—McArdell, Green, Smith, the Wards, Fisher and the rest. The stipple engravers (Bartolozzi, Watson, Delattre, Soiron, Bonnet and others) make their demand. Likewise Prestel, Debucourt, Descourtis, Janinet and other aquatinters, who bring to mind the whole field of color prints, including much English work after Morland, Ward, Wheatley among others.

In wood-engraving, ever identified with book production, Dürer, Burgkmaier, Graf, Boldrini, Jeghers, the Master I. B. with the Bird, and such exponents of chiaroscuro as Ugo da Carpi and Hans Baldung Grien are of importance.

Wants: Modern Prints.

But not only old prints are desired, certain 19th century artists are almost entirely lacking, and much recent work, especially European. Zorn, Chahine, Max Liebermann, Max Klinger, Helleu, F. Brangwyn, D. Y. Cameron, Stauffer-Bern, Svabinsky, Leistikow, Schmutzer, A. H. Haig, Orlik, Lepère are some of the most noteworthy. Or the little group of Americans abroad: Pennell, Aid, Worcester, McLaughlin. Or again Thaulow, Robbe, Houdard, Béjot, Ranft and others who have produced remarkable results in color-etching. In lithography, H. Vernet's "Lancer" (1816) and Millet's "Sower" (1851) would be welcomed, as would the work of Whistler, Greiner, C. H. Shannon, Steinlen.

Often the very fact that the Library has a few prints by an artist should serve as an incentive to gathering a more worthy representation of this work. That is so in the case of Dürer, Leyden, Goltzius, Strang, Max Klinger. Even the Library's good collection of Whistlers is not nearly a complete one. And the extent of the American collection makes the absence of a few artists all the more apparent.

All of this is simply an indication of what is necessary. A full list of desiderata can hardly be given here, but inspection of the print room is urgently invited.

It remains for those who can answer this appeal to aid in putting this department of the Library in a position to answer all proper demands as satisfactorily as does this Library in the case of the printed book. Then will this print department be really worthy of the metropolis.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANK WEITENKAMPF,

Curator.

EXHIBITIONS.

The historical exhibition of painter-lithography, opened in December, 1908, at LENOX, was continued until March. In April it was succeeded by a selection of prints illustrating "Animals in black-and-white," a treatment of animal life in etchings and lithographs, of interest for its subject matter and as an object lesson in the development of art methods and the change of taste.

This gave place on August 19 to a "Hudson-Fulton exhibition," which occupied both the print gallery and the lower hall. It was divided into three sections: Henry Hudson and the Discovery of the Hudson River; The Hudson River from New York City to the Source; Robert Fulton and Early Steam Navigation. The print gallery was given over to the second and largest section, which offered a pictorial record of the Hudson River. Only such pictures were included as actually showed the river, rare prints, ordinary woodcuts, photographs and cheap process prints being included in so far as necessary to compose a fairly complete panorama of both banks. The water front of New York City was illustrated with noteworthy fullness, the prints ranging in date from the earliest 17th century views to photographs taken in 1909, and including a particularly large group of scenes at the Battery. One feature was the inclusion of work by C. F. W. Mielatz, C. H. White, H. Winslow, and other present day artists who have seized upon the artistic possibilities of the metropolis. The printed catalogue included about 800 items, of which about 650 were shown.

In December this exhibition was replaced by one of "Modern Book-Plates." This was devoted mainly to American work, a few foreign plates having been included in order to emphasize difference in style and variety of interest, a group by C. W. Sherborn, the English artist, being particularly noteworthy. The place of honor among the American artists was given to E. D. French and J. W. Spenceley, both deceased, whose drawings, copper-plates, and impressions in various "states" illustrated methods of production. Copper-engravings by S. L. Smith, W. F. Hopson, J. H. Fincken and A. N. Macdonald, and "process" reproductions of designs by W. M. Stone, W. E. Fisher, Jay Chambers, D. McN. Stauffer, Louis Rhead, Mrs. A. R. Wheelan, and etchings by E. L. Warner and Dr. L. M. Yale, present an extremely suggestive array of different styles.

In the lower hall at LENOX, the Milton exhibition gave way on January 18th to a highly characteristic collection of prints by modern Bohemian artists. Masterly portraits by Max Svabinsky, interesting color etchings by T. F. Simon, drypoints by Kupka, views of Prague by Hofbauer, Caspar, and Stretti, and figure work by Uprka, Jiranek, and Preissig, offered various phases of a national art. The prints, with a few exceptions, were loaned by Mr. Rud. Ruzicka; subsequently a number of etchings by Simon and Preissig came into possession of the Library.

On January 14 two cases were filled with prints and manuscripts relative to Edgar Allen Poe.

On February 8 both of these shows gave place to a Lincoln exhibit, which included books, autographs, and medals, but consisted in the main of portraits of Lincoln and pictures relating to him. The portraits showed him at various ages, and included noteworthy prints such as those signed by W. E. Marshall and Thomas Johnson, as well as the inferior but interesting woodcuts and lithographs once plentifully issued. Caricatures were not wanting, and there was a remarkably large lot of memorial cards and badges issued at the time of Lincoln's death.

In March the Bohemian prints were again placed on view, giving way in April to an exhibition of book-plates and other engravings by the late J. W. Spenceley, of whose works the Library has an almost complete collection.

In May a selection of "Recent Accessions" was displayed. This included a large variety of prints—reproductive and original etchings and wood-engravings, French line engravings of the 18th century, mezzotints by S. Arlent Edwards and F. G. Stevenson, book-plates and posters. There was a large proportion of American work, and the show, with its appeal to many tastes, effectively illustrated the growth of the print collection in various directions.

In June line engravings after Raphael, from the Engelmann collection, were placed on view, and these, in August, were replaced by a portion of the "Hudson Fulton Exhibition," already described.

In November, this latter was removed for a "Washington Irving" show, commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of that author's death. Numerous portraits, scenes in Sleepy Hollow, illustrations to Irving's works (particularly notable those by F. O. C. Darley), editions of Irving's books and some manuscripts, made up this exhibition.

About the middle of December mezzotints in color by F. G. Stevenson were placed on view. This art, which is known here particularly well through the works of S. Arlent Edwards, was illustrated not only in its purely artistic but also in its technical aspects. Copper plates showing stages of "rocking" and progressive proofs answered the legitimate interest in processes, and the usual display of literature on the subject pointed out the way to more detailed information. Portions of the Colonna collection of Japanese prints were on exhibition from time to time, and the exhibit of engraving processes furnished by the Century Company was continued.

At the ASTOR Branch the exhibitions in the wing frames were as follows: Book-plates by J. W. Spenceley, January; Plates from "Neue Sculpturen" (Modern German and Austrian sculpture), January and February; objects in the "Hoentschel Collection" presented to the Metropolitan Museum by Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, February and March; Interiors and woodwork, Chateau de Rambouillet, March and April; Plates from "Musée Galliera:

Exposition de la parure précieuse de la femme: Bijoux," April and May; Plates from "Tapices de la corona de España, por Nauser y Manet," May and June; Plates from "Army and Navy of the United States," June and July; F. G. Dumas's "Illustrated biographies of modern artists," July; J. Claesen's "La Dentelle," August; "Neuzeitliche Stickerei Skizzen," August and September; "En Vogue" (a work on textile design) September and October; F. Contet's "Documents de ferronnerie ancienne de la seconde moitié du 18^e siècle, fin Louis XVI," October and November; Reproductions of paintings in the Wallace Collection (Hertford House), November and December; J. C. Dana's collection illustrating "The Printed Book," December.

THE BULLETIN.

Vol. 13 of the BULLETIN for 1909 contained 836 pages, an increase of 96 over the preceding volume.

Besides the usual monthly reports the BULLETIN contained the following lists of works in the Library: Mormons (March), Fishing and Fish Culture (April), Asiatic languages (May-July), Oceanic languages (July), African languages (August), Henry Hudson and Robert Fulton (September), Mexico (October-December).

The issue for January contained selections from a collection of manuscripts relating to the Isle de Bourbon (Réunion) during the governorship of Jean Baptiste de Villers, 1701-1710. The Director's report for 1908 was printed in the February number. In April was printed the letter from Jacob H. Schiff, Esq., presenting the Tissot collection of Old Testament paintings, and in September a selection from the manuscripts in the Library by or relating to Robert Fulton.

The resolutions adopted by the Board on the late John S. Kennedy were printed in the December issue.

PURCHASES AND GIFTS.

Our purchases for the reference department have continued along much the same lines as in the last few years. Subscriptions to periodicals have taken about half our book appropriations, and the remainder has gone mainly towards adding to our material on history, the economic and social sciences, art, technology, naval history, drama, and related topics. As instances of the development of the collection may be mentioned a group of over 200 volumes relating to the Balkans, 250 volumes on Mexico and South America, over 1,000 German dramas, 149 Danish and 20 Slovenian dramas, some 450 documents relating to Dutch canals and waterworks.

More than the usual number of single volumes of interest in connection with American history has been bought. Among these purchases may be mentioned "An alphabetical table of the situation and extent of the different streets, roads, lanes, wharves, and slips, public buildings and justices courts, of the City of New York, by John Law (Second Edition improved)," published at New York by John Law in 1807, 72 pages, 16°; Alexander Graydon's "Memoirs of a life, chiefly passed in Pennsylvania, within the last sixty years" (Harrisburgh: John Wyeth, 1811), 8°, with many marginal notes by the author, some twenty leaves of Appendix in Graydon's manuscript, and a list of "My contributions to the Port Folio"; the "Geographische Belustigungen zur Erläuterung der neuesten Weltgeschichte. Mit Landkarten, Planen und Kupfern nach den neuesten und besten Originalen. (Zum Besten einer Freyschule in Sachsen)," published at Leipzig by the Johann Carl Müllerischen Buch- und Kunsthandlung in 1776, 2 parts in 1, 4°, in the original wrappers, uncut, and containing an interesting map of Boston and environs, "von dem Cheval de Beaurin nach dem Pariser Original von 1776," "Ein Theil des mitternächtlichen America . . . Nach dem Original des Herrn Bonne, Paris, 1773," and "Der Teufels Belt gemeiniglich genannt der Lange Insel Sund."

Two other maps of interest purchased during the year were Bernard Roman's "Map of the seat of civil war in America," published at Philadelphia by Robert Aitkin in August, 1775, showing the country as far west as Worcester, with an inset plan of Boston and a view of the lines on Boston neck; and a set of the two maps issued by Mason and Dixon showing their survey of the boundary between Pennsylvania and Maryland in 1763-7, engraved by James Smither in Philadelphia in 1768.

Mention should be made also of two early pamphlets printed at New Orleans in 1777 by Antoine Boudousquié, "Le Dieu et les nayades du fleuve St. Louis" and "Epitre à Don Bernard de Galvez," governor of the province.

Through the kindness of Mrs. Henry Draper and Mr. Cleveland H. Dodge we have been able to buy many expensive works that could not well have been bought from Library funds. From Mrs. Draper we received 121 volumes, including many works on the fine arts, archæology, etc., such as that on Russian antiquities entitled "Drevnosti rossiskavo gosudarstva" (Moscow, 1849-1865), twenty-five Pali manuscripts, Julius Lessing's Gewerbe Sammlung of the Berlin Royal Museum, etc.

From Mr. Dodge we received 376 volumes of British genealogies, town and county histories, etc., a valued addition to our British local history.

The President, Mr. Cadwalader, Mr. Morgan, Mr. Rives, Mr. Russell, Mr. Sheldon, and other members of the Board of Trustees have given us much, as in past years. We have likewise received books of value and interest from Dr. Robert Abbe, William K. Bixby, R. R. Bowker, Joseph H.

Choate, Mrs. Charles S. Fairchild, Mrs. Julian-James, Thomas A. Janvier, the Duc de Loubat, Elihu Root, all of whom have appeared in our lists of donors in previous reports.

From the estate of the late Bishop Potter we received some 500 volumes, and by bequest from Rev. James Chrystal came an extensive collection of works on church history, some two thousand volumes in number, besides the manuscripts and other papers of the testator and the plates of and copyrights in his books.

In March Mr. Jacob H. Schiff gave us 371 water color paintings done by the late James Tissot, illustrating Old Testament life and scenes. Unfortunately we cannot put the collection on view until removal to the new building grants us relief from our present crowded condition.

We have continued to receive from the Review of Reviews, the American Agriculturist, the Churchman, the Methodist Library, the Scientific American, the Publisher's Weekly, the Railroad Age Gazette, Evening Post, and Cooper Union gifts of current newspapers and other periodicals, and Messrs. Harper & Brothers and Charles Scribner's Sons have sent in several thousand prints, photographs, and other illustrative material used in their publishing business, all of which is of value for the print room.

Mention has been made in the report of the print department of various gifts of prints; there is no need here to do more than mention in this connection the names of Harry C. Dickins, T. Frantisek Simon, and Vojt Preissig. Special thanks are due to Mr. Junius S. Morgan for his services and interest in connection with the large collection of prints bought for the print room during this year.

The German-American collection grew during 1909 to the extent of 706 volumes and pamphlets received from ninety-six donors. Rev. John Rothensteiner of St. Louis has continued his benefactions of former years, giving 63 pieces during 1909. About sixty newspapers and thirteen periodicals are currently received as gifts for the collection.

The collection of menus brought together by Miss Frank E. Buttolph amounts now to 19,580 pieces.

In April the trustees received as a gift from Mr. Russell and other members of the Board a portrait of the Director painted by Miss Ellen Emmet.

CIRCULATION DEPARTMENT.

BENJAMIN ADAMS, Chief.

BUILDINGS.

At the date of the last report the City had acquired for circulation branches twenty-three sites in the Borough of Manhattan, five in The Bronx, and four in Richmond, making a total of thirty-two sites for erection of buildings from the Carnegie fund. During 1909 no new sites were bought, but seven sites were approved by the Board of Trustees and the city authorities. The necessary funds for buying them have not been voted, but it is hoped that action on this matter will be taken early in 1910 by the new Board of Estimate.

On all the thirty-two sites heretofore secured buildings have been erected and opened, four new buildings being opened during 1909, as noted below. Detailed statistics as to acquisition of sites, their dimensions, the architects, and general condition of the work were given in a table (No. 3) printed in the last report; if printed in this report for 1909 the table would stand unchanged except to show that buildings Nos. 24, 30, 32 and 37 were opened on November 11, 1909, February 26, September 24, and January 11, respectively.

The circulation department now comprises forty branches, excluding the TRAVELLING LIBRARY Office and the LIBRARY FOR THE BLIND which have a regular branch organization, but are quartered temporarily in the RIVERSIDE and ST. AGNES branches respectively. Thirty-one of the branches are situated in the Borough of Manhattan, five in The Bronx, and four in Richmond.

There are now thirty-two branch buildings erected from the Carnegie fund, four having been added during the past year, all in the Borough of Manhattan. Of these four buildings only one, the HAMILTON FISH PARK branch, is a new branch organization. The others were erected to furnish new quarters for existing branches, viz., the HARLEM LIBRARY, SACRED HEART, and EAST BROADWAY branches.

The Harlem Library was incorporated as the Harlem Library Association in September, 1825, having already existed for several years as a voluntary association. In 1897 the library was made free to the public, and on December 14, 1903, it was consolidated with the New York Public Library as the HARLEM LIBRARY branch. On January 11, 1909, the new building, erected from the Carnegie fund, was opened at 9 West 124th Street.

The Sacred Heart library was opened in January, 1901, as a branch of the Cathedral Free Circulating Library, at 463 West 51st Street. On January 1, 1905, it was received as a branch of the New York Public Library, occupying the same quarters till September 24, 1909, when it removed to the new building as the COLUMBUS branch of the New York Public Library.

The East Broadway branch of the Aguilar Free Library was opened in October, 1886, at 206 East Broadway, moved to new quarters at 197 East Broadway in September, 1891, and on March 1, 1903, was received as a branch of the New York Public Library. On November 11, 1909, it was moved to its new building which was opened as the SEWARD PARK branch of the New York Public Library.

The usual formal opening exercises were held in each case, consisting of the delivery of the building to the city by a representative of the Trustees, its acceptance by an official appointed for the purpose by the Mayor, and its re-delivery to the Library for administration in accordance with agreement. These representatives were as follows for each of the four formal openings:

BRANCH :	LIBRARY REPRESENTATIVE :	CITY REPRESENTATIVE :
HARLEM (January 11, 1909).....	Mr. Charles H. Russell.	Hon. Reginald S. Doull.
HAMILTON FISH PARK (February 26, 1909).....	Mr. Cleveland H. Dodge.	Hon. Patrick F. McGowan.
COLUMBUS (September 24, 1909)...	Hon. Morgan J. O'Brien.	Hon. Patrick F. McGowan.
SEWARD PARK (November 11, 1909)	Hon. Samuel Greenbaum.	Hon. Reginald S. Doull.

Music was furnished at the HARLEM LIBRARY opening by Miss Florence McMillan and Miss E. Eleanor Patterson; at HAMILTON FISH PARK by Miss Elizabeth Mandelkern and Master Abe Flatow; at COLUMBUS by the pupils of the Sacred Heart School and Public School No. 84; and at SEWARD PARK by Miss Ellie Ebeling, Mr. Maurice Nitke, and by the orchestra and glee club of Public School No. 62.

Elevations and floor plans of the SEWARD PARK, HAMILTON FISH PARK, and HARLEM LIBRARY branches are printed in the appendix to this report.

Through the kindness of Mr. Dodge and other friends we have been able to add to the attractiveness of the branches by the purchase of pictures, plaster casts, plants, etc.

ROOF READING-ROOMS.

Five of the branch libraries are now equipped with roof reading-rooms. This feature was first introduced at the RIVINGTON STREET branch which was opened June 10, 1905, with a roof reading-room forty feet square. It proved so popular, 7,483 readers using it during the summer of 1905, that similar accommodations were called for in four other buildings located in crowded districts. These four new ones are the ST. GABRIEL'S PARK, HAMILTON FISH PARK, COLUMBUS and SEWARD PARK branches.

Statistics showing the use of the roof reading-rooms in three of these five branches during 1909 are here appended. COLUMBUS and SEWARD PARK branches were opened in September and November, too late in the year to make use of the open-air reading-rooms, and they are, of course, omitted from the table.

MONTH	RIVINGTON STREET	HAMILTON FISH PARK	ST. GABRIEL'S PARK

June	5,670	2,687	1,143
July	8,246	1,038	1,036

CIRCULATION.

During the year 1909, 7,013,649 volumes were circulated, an increase of 509,247 over 1908. Of this increase 243,917 is the circulation of the HAMILTON FISH PARK branch, newly opened this year, and the remainder 265,330 is the net increase of the circulation at seventeen branches, including the TRAVELLING LIBRARY Office and the LIBRARY FOR THE BLIND. The TRAVELLING LIBRARY Office alone shows an increase of 38,705 volumes. Statistics of the circulation for home use by months and by classes are given in tables III-VI.

The method of computing the number of persons actually taking books for home use during the calendar year, adopted in 1908 has been continued, and the results are given in the last column of table XIII. This method, which superseded the former plan of enumerating all persons registered, gives a much more accurate computation of the total number of persons using the library.

Permission to withdraw eight books at a time for home use during the vacation months (June 1 to October 1) has been granted as heretofore, and the privilege has been highly appreciated. Statistics of this vacation reading are shown by branches and classes in table VI.

SUNDAY AND EVENING OPENING.

There have been no changes during the past year in the hours of Sunday openings (2 to 6 P. M.) in the branch reading-rooms. The attendance at the branches thus opened was as follows:

* Open till the 12th of October.

	NO. OF SUNDAYS	MALE	ADULT	TOTAL
RIVINGTON STREET.....	52	13,275	12,782	13,477
OTTENDORFER	52	3,283	2,649	3,422
TOMPKINS SQUARE.....	52	5,030	4,928	5,095
MUHLENBERG	52	2,610	2,803	2,809
58TH STREET.....	52	1,747	1,970	1,979
RIVERSIDE	52	1,652	1,941	1,941
		<hr/> 27,597	<hr/> 27,073	<hr/> 28,723

As compared with the year 1908 the results show an increase of 2,323 in attendance.

The reading-rooms at the TOMPKINS SQUARE and RIVINGTON STREET branches have remained opened evenings until ten o'clock. The table below shows the attendance during 1909:

	PERSONS IN READING- ROOM AT 9 P. M.	NUMBER COMING IN AFTER 9 P. M.	TOTAL
RIVINGTON STREET.....	21,038	8,447	29,485
TOMPKINS SQUARE.....	12,249	2,292	14,541
	<hr/> 33,287	<hr/> 10,739	<hr/> 44,026

This is an increase of 2,148 over 1908. Experiments in previous years seem to show conclusively that there is practically no demand at other branches for keeping the reading-rooms open after 9 P. M.

STAFF.

The staff of the department on December 31, 1909, included 503 persons (counting 32 vacant positions temporarily filled by persons on trial or by substitutes), classified as follows:

General Staff:

Administration	15
Cataloguing Office.....	10
Book Order Office.....	2
Instruction Office.....	1
Bindery	7

Branches:

Librarians in charge (Class A).....	41
1st Assistant Librarians (Class B).....	35
Children's Librarians.....	14
2nd Assistant Librarians (Class C).....	113
Assistants (Class D).....	143
Attendants (Class E).....	23
Custodians of reading-rooms.....	22
Janitors	37
Messengers	8
	436
Vacancies	32
Total	503

This represents an increase of thirty over the number reported in 1908. This increase is accounted for as follows: for old branches moving into new buildings, eighteen; added to the General Staff, three; to MOTT HAVEN, MORRISANIA, TREMONT, two each; to HAMILTON FISH PARK, 58TH STREET, 67TH STREET, 115TH STREET, one each; taken from Stapleton, one.

Of the vacancies now existing four are in the General Staff, one in class C, eleven in class D, one in class E, six are reading-room custodians, one a janitor, and eight are messengers.

The number of separate appointments made during 1909 was 100; thirty-three transfers were effected; forty-eight members of the staff resigned; indefinite leave of absence was granted to twenty-six, and there were three deaths.

Besides these 503 regular members of the staff there are also a number of substitutes, employed temporarily or for part time, as set forth in detail in the following paragraph:

During the year 1909 there were employed 469 substitutes and extra assistants approximately 1,700 times in the several branches and in the general offices for periods varying from a few hours to the full month. Many of these temporary appointments were made necessary by the work incident to the opening of new branches, the removal of established branches into new and larger buildings, and the reorganization of other branches. The greater part, however, of these assignments was necessitated by one or more of the following reasons: (a) as vacation substitutes, (b) to replace regular assistants on leave of absence without pay, (c) to fill vacancies caused by resignations and indefinite leaves of absence, (d) to meet deficiencies in the staff caused by illness or temporary leaves (one week or less), (e) to supplement the regular forces at many branches owing to the continued increase in the circulation of books, and (f) for holidays, Sundays, and extra evening service. In many cases these substitutes were persons on trial for appointment later on, and during the past year sixty-seven substitutes thus received permanent appointments.

DEPARTMENT CONFERENCES.

Meetings of the staff of the circulation department have been continued during the year, librarians in charge of branches meeting weekly with the chief of the department, and assistants in charge of special work meeting their supervisors at regular intervals.

In addition frequent visits to the various branches have been made by the chief of the department, his assistant, supervisors of special work, and others whose duties required it, the number of such visits being recorded at about 850. The Director and Assistant director have also visited most of the branches several times during the year.

STAFF NEWS.

The "Staff News," a weekly mimeographed sheet, has been issued every Saturday, as heretofore, and sent to the branches. It contains official notices, such as the calendar for the week, chronological lists of lectures and meetings held in connection with the work of the library, announcements of changes in the staff, and other items of interest. The total issue for the year amounted to sixty-four pages.

EXAMINATIONS.

In the appended table is given a statement showing the results of examinations for promotion held as usual in May.

CANDIDATES	CANDIDATES TAKING ALL SUBJECTS	PLACED ON LIST	FIRST TRIAL
Total B to A... 9	5	3	2
C to B 40		11
Others to B 5		4
Total to B..... 45	36	15	9
D to C 62		34
F to C 6		6
Others to C 8		5
Total to C..... 76	72	45	24
E to D 11		8	1
F to D 27		24	24
Others to D 16		12	11
Total to D..... 54	54	44	36

It will be noted that the second and last columns of the table call attention to the fact that there is a growing tendency on the part of assistants to ask permission to take a portion of the examination at one time and the remainder at a later period, thus qualifying gradually for their advance.

In the examinations for Class D, of those who failed to secure a mark of 75% but passed in English, six qualified in a final average of examination, work, and personal qualities. This report includes two who made up the condition in English in September, one substitute whose record was revised under the rule adopted in August, and three whose examination in library economy at the New York summer library school was included for this grade.

INSTRUCTION OFFICE.

MISS E. L. FOOTE, Instructor.

During the year one training class, pursuing the regular nine months' course, completed the term on July 1, and another was enrolled October 1. Of the twenty-seven students entering the final examinations in May, two made up a condition in English in September and one completed her record in library economy at the New York state summer school; including these records, twenty-three successfully passed examinations and received the certificate from the training class. One other was placed on the eligible list in addition, and six also passed the examinations for Class C. There was also one special student, entered March 1, who attended the New York state summer school and was placed on the eligible list October 1.

In the examinations for the class of 1910, from a total of seventy-five applicants fifty-four candidates were examined. Of thirty-three who were accepted, twenty-seven have remained in the class up to date.

The course of instruction has followed practically the same lines as in former years, except that new details are constantly introduced as opportunity for improvement is seen. A new selection of branches for training students was made in October, reducing the number to fourteen, aside from the general offices, and placing two students in all but three of these branches. The librarians of these branches have met occasionally with the Instructor for general consultation and the practical questions of uniformity and adaptation of instruction to practical work have been discussed with profit.

The Director and various members of the staff have given talks from time to time on the work of the Library, and we have also had several lectures by persons from other libraries. These latter lectures were as follows:

Mr. William R. Eastman, Chief of Educational Extension Division, N. Y. State Education Department, on "Library buildings;" Miss Josephine A.

Rathbone, Pratt Institute Library School, on "Opportunities of a librarian;" Miss Caroline M. Hewins, Hartford Public Library, on "One child's reading;" Miss Isabella M. Cooper, Newark Public Library, on "Reference work;" Mrs. Martha Foote Crow, on "Present day writers."

During the year 671 copies of the circular of information, in some cases accompanied by an application blank, have been supplied to applicants for the class; 350 of these were given in personal interviews and thirty-two since October 1st; thirteen applications have already been filed for the next class. Besides the above, forty-nine copies of the pamphlet of information have been furnished to those asking for it. More of these would have been given out, but the supply being nearly exhausted, many have been refused. Seven hundred and sixty-two letters have gone out from the department and 226 visitors, other than applicants, have called at the office. Ninety-one accessioned volumes have been added to the technical collection in the class room, besides 300 pamphlets and leaflets, making a total of 747 volumes and 1,164 pamphlets. Since this collection was started in June, 1902, thirteen accessioned volumes have been lost, either from the shelves or in circulation and thirteen have been transferred to branches. The circulation from this collection during the year has been 334. Another collection, numbering 219 pieces, has been started for use in the practice work in the class.

The class in general reading, started in November, 1908, discussed on alternate Thursdays the works of various essayists, such as John Fiske, Ruskin, Agnes Repplier, James Bryce, James Russell Lowell, and others. In November, 1909, a class was begun for the study of biography and such books were discussed as the Life of Alice Freeman Palmer, by her husband, Howe's Phillips Brooks, Joseph Jefferson's Autobiography, Henderson's Wagner, E. L. Cary's The Rosettis, and Douglass' Theodore Watts-Dunton.

The following subjects in library economy were discussed on the alternate Thursdays, usually by the Instructor:

Decimal classification, Cataloguing and miscellaneous questions, General library literature and information, Statistics (two lessons).

The Chief of the department gave two lectures to assistants in classes C and B which were attended by a total of about 100.

Since November 1, 1909, Mr. Adams, Chief of the department has addressed the assistants appointed during the year on the rules of the library. The Instructor has twice met assistants in classes E and D, also those in C and B, for general advice in individual study and for instruction in library economy.

CATALOGUING WORK.

Miss E. F. CRAGIN, Chief Cataloguer.

In the cataloguing work of the circulation department, the division of labor between the central office and the branches is the same as usual. The planning is done at the central office, and the details carried out at the branches.

The following table indicates the work done by the cataloguing office:

Books classified.....	6,127
Cards written for union catalogue.....	21,921
Cards written for duplicate union catalogue.....	3,991
Books entered in union catalogue and shelf list.....	51,019
Cards and slips filed.....	86,600
Entries discarded from union catalogue and shelf list.....	14,466
Library of Congress cards placed in union catalogue.....	7,961
Library of Congress cards placed in duplicate catalogue....	4,691

Catalogue cards written for branches.....	3,588
Shelf list cards written for branches.....	909
Catalogue cards written by branches.....	135,346
Books accessioned for Central offices.....	661

In addition to the catalogue cards written for branches a complete card catalogue for SEWARD PARK of 40,456 cards, for COLUMBUS of 22,605 cards and a children's catalogue for WEBSTER of 2,553 cards were written and revised in the department.

Preparation of copy and proof-reading for the "Monthly List of Additions" to the circulation department was also done by the cataloguing force.

In addition to the usual classified lists of new books the following lists on special topics were also printed: Automobiles (January); Mountaineering (February); Furniture (March); Wireless telegraphy (April); Music added to the Library for the Blind since January 1, 1908 (October); Books in the Swedish language (November).

The July number of the "Monthly List of Additions" was devoted to a list of books in the Hungarian language presented by the government of Hungary, through Count Albert Apponyi, Minister of religion and public instruction, with the co-operation of other departments of government and of various Hungarian societies.

INTERBRANCH LOANS.

During the year 1909 there has been a substantial increase in the number of volumes sent from branches by the system of interbranch loans to meet the requests of readers. This increase is best shown in the following table:

	1907	1908	1909
(1) Books requested.....	33,888	46,075	50,754
(2) Books supplied.....	23,197	32,696	35,773
(3) Calls by messenger.....	90,579	137,031	142,781

Of the books so requested 5,186 were not in any branch, and such of these as were found suitable for the library have since been purchased. Of the other books asked for but not furnished, 7,831 were at the bindery, worn out, or too much in demand at one branch to be sent to another.

The ratio of books supplied, to those asked for, was about the same in 1909 as in 1908, being between 70 and 71 per cent.

The record of books requested during the past year through the interbranch loan system, showing classes and kinds of books is given in the following table:

ENGLISH.	FOREIGN

Total English and foreign..... 50,754

This total of requests for English and foreign books through the inter-branch loan system shows an increase of 4,679 over the number recorded in 1908.

During the year 1909 the assistant in charge of the work has written 11,869 notes of explanation, and has filed 71,291 cards. Lists of the best books on special subjects have been prepared on the request of readers at the various branches and forwarded to the branch through which the request originated. In the past year such lists were prepared on fifty-six different subjects, classified as follows: Applied Sciences, 19; Philosophy, 8; Literature, 7; Economics, 7; Amusements, 3; Biography, 3; Travel, 3; Music, 3; Art, 2; History, 1.

As before, the operation of the loan system has been under the general direction of the chief cataloguer, and at each branch one assistant has included among her duties the direction of the loan system at that branch. The transportation of books has been carried on through the library express messengers.

The union catalogue of books in the entire circulating system has been used during the year by an increased number of readers, a special assistant being assigned to take charge of it in evenings and on holidays. The table below shows the use of this catalogue in 1909:

	DAY USE	EVENING USE	TOTAL

SCHOOL WORK.

EDWIN WHITE GAILLARD, Supervisor.

Conditions in Manhattan, Bronx, and Richmond, caused by a rapidly shifting population, have resulted in the abandonment of a number of schools, and in the transfer of others to Brooklyn, and Queens, and to places outside of the city. Instead of the visiting list of the branches containing the names of 411 schools as was the case a year ago, only 401 are now on this list, notwithstanding the fact that eight have been added during the year. The public elementary school population, and the population of probably all other elementary schools, has continued to show an actual decrease in Manhattan.

The following is a formal statistical report of the work with schools for the year:

	1908	1909
Visits paid to schools.....	4,173	4,938
Notices and announcements posted in educational institutions.....	7,053	4,210
"Monthly List of Additions" sent to all teachers	92,255	99,440
Special study cards issued to teachers.....	3,355	3,000
Books lost by teachers, unpaid.....	2	6
Pupils recommended by teachers.....	25,260	14,027
Books lost through application blanks endorsed by teachers.....	307	106
Reference use:—
Elementary schools.....	89,400	112,534
High schools.....	48,177	55,570
Total school reference use.....	137,577	167,924

Last year, when eighty-six addresses of various kinds were delivered in schools, it was assumed that none would be needed in 1909, but the contrary has proved to be the case. In response to direct requests, sixty-nine have been delivered this year, as follows: at teachers' conferences, 17; in classrooms, 45; at morning assemblies, 7.

The marked decrease in the number of children who have become members of the library on recommendation of their teachers is due to a changed method of registration, whereby parents, rather than teachers or others, are accepted as guarantors for children.

The following table shows the number of teachers' special study cards in actual use at all branches on December 22nd, a date arbitrarily selected for this count.

This increase of 1,239 teachers' special study cards in use at the end of 1909 as compared with the same date in 1908 is of special interest, in view of the fact that the number of special study cards issued to teachers in 1909 shows a decrease as compared with 1908. This would seem to indicate that heretofore we have had preliminary registration, and that from now on the use and the growth will be normal, showing slight variations in increase or decrease.

The increased number of teachers who are using the branches has caused an increase in the demand for books; in the effort to comply with this, books have been purchased as indicated in the following table:

The 6,335 volumes purchased as "reserves for teachers" were bought almost entirely in response to direct requests that the branches were unable to meet from their own stocks or by borrowing from other branches. Of this number about 500 were books entirely new to the circulation department.

Effort is made to have in the branch system at least one copy of every valuable book on education that is published in England and America, and to have represented in the circulation department the best educational works published in France, Germany, and Italy, and exceptional books from Hungary, Bohemia, Poland, Argentina, Chile, and Spain. These foreign books are used to a slight extent, but they are purchased for the exceptional student of larger educational movements.

Three broadside lists of "Recent Books of Interest to Teachers" have been published and distributed, 4,500 copies of each.

In order that children in elementary and high schools may naturally connect the library with their daily school life, may naturally and easily learn the use of a public library while at school, and just as naturally continue its use after leaving school, it was decided some years ago to establish in all branches certain collections of reference books. These works were selected to meet requests resulting from elementary and high school curriculums. On the whole the establishment of these collections seems justified, though doubtless more fortunate selections of books could have been made in some cases. School reference use has increased from 42,392, in the year before any of these books had been purchased, to 167,924 in 1909. Other causes have contributed to this increase: the unification of work in children's rooms, increased number of branches, closer relation with schools, and improved methods of making these books useful on the part of the librarians. Without the books, however, very little could have been done.

An interesting and encouraging feature of the work with schools is the use made of the branches by classes from neighboring schools. During the year 112 classes with their teachers have come to the branches during school hours for systematic instruction in the use of reference books. As a result of many conferences between librarians and teachers, numerous subjects have been selected as suitable for work of this kind and sufficiently covered by material available.

All of the recently established and reorganized branches have formed reference collections for elementary and high school use. In addition to these, purchases have been made as noted in the appended table. It will thus be seen that nearly all branches have now at least the foundations of small reference collections.

During 1909 these books were added, a few at a time, as their need was felt and as circumstances warranted.

WORK WITH CHILDREN.

MISS ANNIE CARROLL MOORE, Supervisor.

The work with children has been visibly strengthened at many points during the past year. Four children's rooms have been opened in new buildings and the work for children at three branches has been fully or partially reorganized. The reorganization in two branches involved the removal of the children's books from the first floor to the second, and the installation of separate charging and registration systems with increased facilities for reference and reading-room work.

As three of the new buildings take the place of branch libraries in the same districts there is an increase of but one in the number of points of administration. A very large increase is to be noted, however, in the amount and in the kind of work now carried on in the children's rooms of the SEWARD PARK, COLUMBUS, and HARLEM LIBRARY branches as compared with what was possible in the cramped quarters of the old EAST BROADWAY, SACRED HEART, and HARLEM LIBRARY branches. This is also true of the children's work at the TREMONT and MOTT HAVEN branches since its removal to the second floor of each building. There are now forty-one points of administration including the office of the Supervisor.

The circulation of books from children's rooms in 1909 was 2,468,383. In 1908 it was 2,175,347. (These figures do not include the circulation to children through travelling libraries.) The circulation of books from children's rooms represents more than one-third of the total circulation reported from forty branch libraries and from the travelling libraries.

82,499 books have been added through the office of the Supervisor of work with children and 3,006 books have been added through the office of the Supervisor of school work. The first figures represent a large increase of stock by the duplication of titles, the freshening of reading-room and circulating collections by new titles, and the replacement of worn-out volumes. The second set of figures represents the installment of reference collections in children's rooms or the enlargement of collections already in use.

In 1908 the number of additions was 65,381 and in 1907 it was 38,094.

The number of volumes now shelved in children's rooms for circulating and reference use is 180,003 as compared with 147,954 in 1908, and 125,103 in 1907.

The active demand for books is still far in excess of the supply at several libraries, and a short stock becomes a serious administrative problem during the busy months, since it brings undue strain of service upon the books and binding, and takes time which should be given to helping the children in their selection of books.

The exceptional care given to books in reference and reading-rooms and the effect of such care upon the books in circulation is again to be noted and commended since it represents continued vigilance and a high standard of routine work on the part of all assistants scheduled in children's rooms.

One of the direct effects of this care is shown by the decrease in losses of books reported from libraries where formerly the losses were very heavy. The total number of children's books reported missing at inventory is slightly less than the number reported for 1908, although the count for 1909 includes four new libraries, from one of which the largest circulation to children is reported and two of which rank among the first ten in size of circulation.

A careful study of the losses by class and by size of the book has been of great assistance in dealing with this problem from the practical standpoint of book purchase and arrangement of books on the shelves.

There has been a notable increase in the reference and reading-room use of the children's rooms throughout the system. Several branches reporting a decrease in circulation statistics report a very much more general use of the children's room for recreational reading and for purposes of study.

Until October 1 story-telling was continued along the lines indicated in the last report. One of the two visiting story-tellers was then placed in charge of the work, and assistants desiring to tell stories were given opportunity to test their ability, subject to her criticism. On November 1 regular story-hours were resumed or established at thirty branches, each assistant making her own selection of stories, guided by such suggestions as seemed likely to secure the desired result.

The general aim has been so to adapt the story-hour to each library as to make it both an active factor in the work and a delightful occasion in itself. A copy of the book from which the story is told is shown to the children at the end of the story-hour and is then placed on a special table or shelf in the children's reading-room. Children frequently bring their friends to read the stories to which they have listened.

The two visiting story-tellers aim once a month to visit all branches desiring to hold story-hours. The Supervisor's assistant has addressed and told stories at four mothers' meetings and at two public school assemblies on Staten Island in addition to the story-hours she has held at branch libraries.

Requests from other public schools and institutions have been declined on account of the pressure of her duties in connection with the office and the general work of the children's rooms.

Two clubs for older boys have been formed in addition to the one reported last year, at which the boys themselves have told stories of their own selection.

Clubs for older girls have been formed at two branches and admirable work is being done by children's librarians and assistants in the way of informal reading circles as well as in story-telling and club work.

The total number of story-hours held in 1909 was 598. The total attendance was 15,615. (Story-hours are held only from November 1 to May 1.)

Exhibits of butterflies and birds, North American Indian relics, Indian and Chinese games and toys, with small exhibits of shells and corals have been added to the exhibits lent by the American Museum of Natural History in 1908.

In addition to the Museum exhibits some private collections of dolls in the costumes of different nations and periods, with a very interesting collection of pictures and terra cotta figures illustrating Sicilian life have been lent to the children's rooms of the HARLEM LIBRARY, TOMPKINS SQUARE, and SEWARD PARK branches.

The KINGSBRIDGE children's room has received a gift from Mr. C. H. Dodge of curios, birds with birds' nests and birds' eggs, and an exhibition case in which to display them. The TOMPKINS SQUARE children's room has received from Hon. Daniel B. Fearing a gift of twenty-seven dolls in the costumes of many nations, and the HAMILTON FISH PARK children's room a collection of dolls in Hungarian national costume.

An exhibit of books suggested as Christmas gifts was again shown at the ST. GEORGE branch during December. A smaller Christmas book exhibit was shown at the FIFTY-EIGHTH STREET branch.

Several German lithographs and pictures of a similar kind were purchased for circulation among the branches as temporary exhibits. Plants and other decorations have been received by a considerable number of libraries.

The new mural decorations in the children's rooms of the NINETY-SIXTH STREET, the SEWARD PARK, and the TOMPKINS SQUARE branches have attracted much attention and favorable comment from children and grown people.

Howard Pyle's "Robin Hood," the "Arabian Nights," and the Fairy Tales of Grimm and Hans Andersen illustrated by Helen Stratton, "Don Quixote" illustrated by T. H. Robinson, Boutet de Monvel's "Joan of Arc" and Sir John Tenniel's "Alice in Wonderland" are among the books represented in these mural decorations.

City History Clubs were organized at five branches during the past year. Eight clubs are now holding regular weekly meetings under the direction of the City History Club of New York. The object of the clubs is training in good citizenship by the study of city history and civics and by a series of excursions to points of historic interest. Extension of this work will be made as rapidly as qualified leaders can be provided by the City History Club.

The monthly meetings for assistants in charge of children's rooms have been continued. The May meeting has become one of peculiar interest as each assistant then gives a brief account of the significant gains in the work of her children's room during the year.

Children's books in foreign languages was made the general theme of the meetings to be given to the discussion of children's books in 1909-1910. A meeting on Bohemian books for children, accompanied by an exhibit of books, was held at the WEBSTER branch in March. The speaker, a Bohemian lady, formerly a children's librarian, was asked to repeat her address at the New York State meeting in September.

So keen an interest was awakened by her presentation of what exists for children in Bohemian history and literature that three branch librarians consented to give in turn similar accounts of the Hungarian, Russian and Polish, and German books for children. The meetings will be held in districts where these languages predominate. Lists of the books approved will be prepared for inclusion in the list of children's books recommended for purchase. The number of titles will be small and the books will only be ordered to supply definite needs.

The most satisfactory results of the children's work during the past year have been the strength given to the service by increasing the number of qualified children's librarians from six to fourteen and the completion of the qualification test. This test consisted of six months of practical work in the children's rooms of three typical branches. An outline of points to be observed while performing the work of a full-time assistant was given to the candidate on entering upon the test; she was expected to take notes, to form her own judgments and conclusions, and to embody the results in a paper entitled "The work of a children's room" to be submitted at the end of the test.

The outline called for a study of each branch in relation to its neighborhood and for a very practical study of its book collections, embracing the selection, the general condition of books in circulation, the repairing, binding, reinforcing and discarding of books under varying conditions of circulating use. The administration of a large children's department was brought into strong contrast with the care of a small room in a rural branch. Different forms of registration and variation in reference and reading-room work, story-telling and club work, the decoration of children's rooms were all made subjects for observation and study.

The test is again offered and during 1909-1910 four assistants have been given the privilege of qualifying in this way.

The work of the children's rooms for the year 1909 is shown in the following table:

TRAVELLING LIBRARIES.

Miss A. E. BROWN, in Charge.

During the year 1,028,550 volumes have been circulated through Travelling Libraries, an increase of 38,705, or 4 per cent. over the year 1908.

Books were sent to 659 travelling library stations, of which 560 were in the boroughs of Manhattan and The Bronx, and 99 in Richmond.

Circulation through the Department of Education, including the Recreation Department, has amounted to 353,089 volumes; through industrial schools, 297,183; private schools, 144,638; fire department, 22,430; business stations, 143,610; home libraries, 11,391; Young Men's Christian Association, 4,841; Young Women's Christian Association, 13,047; Settlements, 23,848; Sunday schools, 8,630; study clubs, 4,504.

The Staten Island Office has completed its second year, more than doubling its record. Books have been sent to 99 stations during the past year, an increase of 18 stations over the number provided in 1908, and the circulation through these stations has amounted to 52,564 volumes, an increase of 21,416. There have been in use forty-two school sets, twenty home libraries, four Sunday school libraries, collections in eleven fire department stations, and nine general libraries. The field has not yet been covered, and promises much for the future, especially in the direction of study clubs and home libraries.

The school work of the Travelling Libraries has broadened in many ways during the past year. 104 public schools received books, in one school alone 1,000 volumes being placed for circulation. Furthermore, large reference libraries for the use of teachers were established in many schools, while books were furnished to special school classes, such as the Public School Garden Association, the Nature Study Club, and a number of literary clubs. In recreation centres and summer play grounds the work of the Travelling Libraries has also shown marked development. The twenty-one recreation centres in Manhattan and The Bronx were supplied with books, and the privileges of the libraries extended to a total of thirty-one summer playgrounds. In addition, teachers in six elementary school playgrounds have been furnished books on games and organized sport. The total number of volumes from the Travelling Libraries circulated through the Recreation Department in 1909 amounted to 253,105.

This Fall has seen a great increase in the Industrial School work of the Travelling Library Office, the circulation for the year being 297,183 volumes as compared to 208,661 volumes in 1908. Formerly, books were distributed once a week from two or three centres, but at the present time, in each school not near a branch library, a teacher is appointed to distribute books, with the help of a library student who is under the instruction of the home library worker. Frequently a story-hour is given for the children. There are also a number of evening clubs where regular collections of books on civics, hygiene, and manual training are supplied to the boys and young men, and books on domestic science, sewing, etc., to the girls. Many of the best discards are used for general circulation.

In addition, books have been sent to fourteen settlements, fifteen study clubs, ninety-eight home libraries, and seventy-six stations of the fire department. Forty-five libraries have been in churches as Sunday school libraries, club libraries, and for general neighborhood circulation. There have been twenty-four libraries in business places, such as mercantile establishments, large offices, and factories, over one hundred thousand volumes having been circulated during the year through this department alone.

The work with discarded books has been carried on since May, 1908, the branch libraries of the circulation department sending all discarded books that are in fairly good condition to the Travelling Library Office, whence they are sent to places to which it would not be advisable to send the regular books, or from which books could not be returned. As places of this kind may be mentioned the city prisons, hospitals, charitable associations, and other similar institutions.

Through the Department of Correction of New York City, books were in former years either lost, or returned in such deplorable condition from the institutions on Blackwell's, Hart's, and Riker's Islands, that it was decided to supply these places entirely with discarded books, or from the "Special Collections." The District Prisons of New York City were visited by a representative from the Travelling Libraries, and nothing in the way of reading matter was found in them except a few magazines and Bibles. Books have been placed in all, with the assurance of the head keepers that they would be properly cared for and given out to the prisoners.

This year, as last, many discarded volumes were sent to telegraph companies for distribution among the messenger boys. For some years efforts were made to circulate the regular books, but naturally few managers were willing to guarantee the return of the books. Now that it is understood that there is no such responsibility they eagerly receive them for exchange among the boys.

The Travelling Library Office is in receipt of many expressions of the warm appreciation in which its efforts are held by the readers to whom these books are sent. The following letter from Capt. Hamlet, of the Barge Office, may be quoted in illustration: "I wish to acknowledge receipt of four hundred books, in four packages, which you so kindly forwarded to me for use on board the Cutters of the U. S. Revenue-Cutter Service. They have been distributed among the Cutters Seneca, Mohawk, Manhattan, Hudson, and Calumet, and will be passed on to other vessels of the Service, or merchant marine, as soon as read. The Department in Washington wishes me to present thanks to you and the New York Public Library for the opportunity you have given the Service by your generous action to obtain reading matter for the crews of the vessels."

This brief review of the work of the Travelling Libraries will serve to show the manner in which books have been supplied to many places not otherwise provided for, and also in response to special requests which could not be filled through a regular library. The field for this work is constantly broadening, and it is hoped that the increasing need will be met with larger means of service.

WORK WITH THE BLIND.

MISS LUCILE GOLDTHWAITE, in Charge.

The work done with the blind this year reflects the universal tendency toward the broader education of defectives.

The placing of the sightless in the public schools for the seeing, the opening of a permanent exhibit for them in the Museum of Natural History, and the increasing number of blind persons seeking a college education are facts which have influenced the year's work and give promise of wider opportunities for usefulness in the future.

The decision of the Board of Education to teach American Braille in the schools has led to the purchase of much new material in this type and though the larger part of the order has not been filled, supplementary reading matter is being supplied to public school pupils. The movement, however, is too recent to give suggestive results in statistics relating to the use of types.

The circulation, classified according to the several systems of typography, proves that European Braille has again made the greatest gain with us and that the line letter type continues to decrease, as shown in the following table of volumes circulated in 1909:

New York point.....	7,536
European Braille.....	4,236
Moon type.....	2,399
American Braille.....	438
Line letter.....	214
Ink type.....	4
Total	14,827

The demand for the different types of printing for the blind in various parts of the country is illustrated by the distribution of the circulation as shown in the following table:

Of these 14,827 volumes, 12,247 reached their readers by mail, 411 by express.

In the exhibition room recently opened for the blind by the Museum of Natural History have been placed lists of books relating to the objects displayed, and the descriptive labels have been transcribed for the Museum into both New York point and American Braille.

The work of teaching the adult blind in their homes has progressed as usual. One day in each week is given up to those in the City Home on Blackwell's Island. There have been 639 visits made and 419 lessons given.

During the year 140 books and 11 volumes of music have worn out and have been discarded. The following table shows the total number of volumes in the library, with additions for the year, classified according to types:

In a following section of the report relating to the general music collection of the Library mention is made of the music for the blind.

BOOK-ORDER OFFICE.

LeROY JEFFERS, in Charge.

During 1909 approximately 190,000 volumes have been purchased and distributed to branches, 100,000 magazines have been sorted and numbers supplied for binding 3,300 volumes.

The card record system of recording price, binding, and source of books costing over $5.00 and obtainable at special prices, has been continued. Comparison and record have been made of all new and desirable editions of books published during the year in more than one edition in America and England. This information has been added to the comparative record cards which show 4,100 titles and over 12,000 editions. By this selection of editions a large saving has been effected in the purchase of about 55,000 volumes, making it possible to secure with the same sum of money many more books than could otherwise have been obtained.

A book-record system has been instituted whereby any book purchased may at any time be compared with the bill, or the book may be located from the item on the bill. Triplicate numbering machines are used to stamp consecutively each book received, each item billed, and the order slip for each book, which is placed alphabetically on file for reference. Thus the book, the item billed, and the slip filed bear the same serial number. When ready to be packed for distribution to branches, each book is invoiced in triplicate by its serial number, author, and title. One copy of the invoice is retained for reference, and two copies are sent to the branch librarian who checks each book received and signs and returns one copy to the Book Order Office. On the remaining invoice the librarian enters the branch accession number against each title, after which it is signed and returned to the Finance Office. This invoice is then checked with the bills by the serial numbers.

Facilities have been extended for obtaining books on approval. 10,000 new books have been considered during the current year as compared with 5,000 in 1908. Of this total 6,127 new titles have been added.

BINDING.

MISS ROSE G. MURRAY, in Charge.

The system adopted during 1907-1908 of rebinding and discarding worn-out and soiled books has been continued. A uniform policy in the selection of such books has been assured by having the supervisor make a personal review of each selection, in some cases this selection being made by her directly from the shelves.

In order to insure durable bindings in new books many such books are bought by the library bound directly from the sheets, or are rebound in special binding before being placed on the shelves. In 1909 a total of about 37,500 volumes was thus added.

There have been rebound during the past year, including periodicals, 72,953 volumes, of which 58,023 had been returned to branches by December 31. Of the total volumes rebound 6,849 were done at the library bindery. At the beginning of the year 8,000 volumes were waiting to be rebound, and at the end of the year 6,000. Since the establishment of the binding office two years ago, the number of volumes waiting to be rebound at the end of the year has been reduced by 14,000. This reduction is in keeping with the policy inaugurated at that time of sending books from branches to be rebound more frequently and in smaller numbers, thereby preventing unnecessary accumulation of such books at the branches, and decreasing the number of volumes withdrawn from circulation at one time.

In rebinding the general method has been to adapt the style of binding in each case to the value and probable circulation of the volume; during 1909 about one-half of the books were rebound for the first time in full cloth, this style of binding having proved more economical.

Besides the regular work of the library bindery additional work has been done in cutting paper and cloth for repairing books at branches, trimming and cleaning plates for wall-case exhibitions, working on portfolios and maps. The bindery itself has been thoroughly renovated and additions made to the mechanical equipment, the most important being a perforating machine to prepare books for sewing.

The total number of volumes discarded during the year 1909 was approximately 93,000, and of these 17,000 were sent by the TRAVELLING LIBRARY Office to such stations as tuberculosis camps, hospitals, workhouses, and prisons, from which books cannot be received in return. The selection of books to be discarded has been directed with a view to decreasing the past accumulation of undesirable editions and worn-out books unfit for circulation, and thus to make room on the shelves for books in general demand. The number of books discarded in 1909 was about one and three-tenths per cent. of the circulation for the year, a reduction of one-tenth of one per cent. from the number discarded in 1908. It is safe to assume that by continuing the present policy of buying books in better editions than formerly, and by giving them more durable bindings, this annual total of volumes discarded will be considerably reduced in a few years.

Slight repairs to books have been made at the branches, as in former years, and the instruction of assistants in the repair of books has been continued. Close observation during the past two years has proved that much mending of books is uneconomical, and, therefore, books requiring such treatment have been either discarded or rebound. As a result of this policy the amount of mending has been reduced by about fifty per cent. during 1909.

MUSIC COLLECTION.

The library has now a large and representative collection of music scores for circulation. Begun by some of the branches in years previous to consolidation, the collection has since grown rapidly until at the present time a total of 6,919 volumes has been reached.

The collection includes the following classes of music scores: Operas, 3,180; Oratorios and Church music, 654; Songs and choruses, 1,514; Piano, 1,158; Organ, 81; Other instruments, 332. In the selection of music and books on music the library has been especially fortunate in having the expert advice of Dr. Frank Damrosch.

In view of the increasing importance of the music collection the following table is of interest. It is here given separately from the statistics of Fine Arts, in which class the music collection has formerly been grouped.

Of special interest in connection with the music collection of the library is the music in the LIBRARY FOR THE BLIND, where we now have 3,155 volumes or pieces of music. Up to 1905 music for the blind was not acquired in any considerable quantity by the Library, but since that year the collection has grown rapidly. The following table shows the growth of the collection from 1905 to 1909:

1905	573 volumes.

1907	1,745 "
1908	2,975 "

NEWSPAPERS AND CURRENT PERIODICALS.

Newspapers regularly kept on file during the year 1909 at the various branches amounted to eighty-eight different publications, of which thirty-two were in the English language and fifty-six in foreign languages. Most of the English papers consisted of Manhattan dailies and the weekly locals of the various boroughs. For the Manhattan daily newspapers we have adopted the plan of having each branch keep on file at least one paper covering the preceding twelve months and not on file in the other branches. In this way a reader is certain of finding available for consultation somewhere in the city a file of most of the important papers for the year last past.

The large proportion of foreign newspapers has been found necessary to supply the demands of the increasing number of foreign readers using the library. The table below shows the number of different foreign newspapers on file during 1909, classified according to language:

Bohemian	8	Italian	5
Dano-Norwegian	1	Roumanian	3
Finnish	1	Russian	2
French	2	Slovak	1
German	8	Swedish	13

During the past year there were 476 current periodicals kept on file at the branches, 348 in the English language and 119 in foreign languages. The

FOREIGN BOOKS.

The number of books in the department in languages other than English is 64,332, an increase of 7,316 over 1908. The circulation during 1909 was 345,260, a decrease of 656. Detailed statistics for 1909 are given in the following table:

This net loss of 5,816 should be reduced by some 350 volumes recovered from the booty of the thief who stole books in such wholesale quantities from libraries in Brooklyn, Manhattan and neighboring towns during the last year or so; the volumes belonging to the New York Public Library have been identified but have not yet been returned from the police department.

The loss of 5,816 volumes compared with the total circulation gives a percentage of .00082; that is to say, we lost eighty-two volumes for every hundred thousand volumes we circulated.

In the case of the seven branches having the largest amounts in the above table it should be noted that unusually extensive repairs or alterations were carried through this year. At HUDSON PARK the building was painted throughout; at JACKSON SQUARE a new heating plant was installed; at YORKVILLE all outside brickwork was pointed up and waterproofed; at AGUILAR extensive new shelving and new front doors were put in; 135TH STREET and MOTT HAVEN were painted throughout; and at MORRISANIA the second floor was remodelled for the new children's room.

General meetings of the staff have been held as usual through the year, at the HARLEM LIBRARY, ST. GABRIEL'S PARK, and CHATHAM SQUARE branches, and have been attended with their usual interest and profit.

In conclusion I wish to call attention to the earnest, hearty, enthusiastic service given by the members of the staff, a credit to themselves and to the Library. To each and all I give my thanks. Without their support such satisfactory results would have been impossible.

Very respectfully,

JOHN S. BILLINGS.

Director.

The most important gift of the month was that of the Dr. Saram R. Ellison collection on magic, given by Mrs. Henry Draper, consisting of 664 volumes and 433 pamphlets, with a large number of models, wands, letters, clippings in scrap books, etc.

Other gifts worthy of mention were received from the following: P. J. Anderson, a copy of his "Aberdeen Friars, red, black, white, grey, preliminary calendar of illustrative documents," Aberdeen, 1909, the Biblioteca Ambrosiana, the "Vita di Bonacosa da Beccaloe (1352-1381) ed una lettera spirituale a Bianca Visconti di Savoia, in Volgare illustre alto-italiano da un codice manoscritto della biblioteca Riccardiana di Firenze di Achille Ratti," Milano, 1909; William H. Chaffee, his "The Chaffee genealogy, embracing the Chafe, Chafy, Chafie, . . . descendants of Thomas Chaffe of Hingham, Hull, . . . Massachusetts . . . 1635-1909," New York, 1909; Mrs. E. W. Dennison, a copy of "E. W. Dennison, a memorial," Boston, 1909; Herbert Dupuy, the privately printed "Genealogical history of the Dupuy family," by Charles Meredith Dupuy, Philadelphia, 1910; William F. Havemeyer, five prints; Commercial Intelligence Department of India, ninety-seven volumes, twenty-one pamphlets, four maps; Lewis Cass Ledyard, the brief for the appellants, Standard Oil Company of New Jersey vs. the United States of America, 1909; Henry Romeike, Inc., six volumes of newspaper and magazine clippings relating to the Hudson-Fulton Celebration; Rev. John Rothensteiner, forty-four volumes, ninety-two pamphlets and fifty-five periodicals, mostly German Americana; Union Interparlementaire pour l'Arbitrage International, Report of the 15th conference in Berlin, September, 1908; Venezuelan Minister of Foreign Affairs, two volumes of the "Historia contemporánea de Venezuela" por Francisco Gonzalez Guinan, Caracas, 1909; and from the estate of George Wilson, 257 volumes and 10 pamphlets, Government documents, reports of the Chamber of Commerce, etc.

At the LENOX branch, early in the month, the book-plates were replaced by a selection from the etchings of Léopold Flameng, of whose works the Library possesses the largest public collection in existence. Flameng stands in the first rank as a reproductive etcher, among his best works being "Mrs. Graham" and "The Blue Boy" after Gainsborough, Rembrandt's "Gilder" and "Hundred Guilder Piece," and "The Source," by Ingres. Many styles and tastes are reflected in these reproduction of paintings, numerous portraits show personalities of various countries and times, and book-illustrations recall the grace of eighteenth century work.

In the lower hall, there has again been arranged a spring exhibit of "recent accessions." Line engraving is represented by Mellan ("Head of Christ" engraved in one line), Morghen, Drevet, Strange, Mandel, etc.; modern etching by Brangwyn, Simon, Preissig, Pennell, Lester G. Hornby, Robert Koehler, W. H. W. Bicknell; mezzotints in color by S. Arlent Edwards; wood engraving by W. M. Aikman, O. Grosch, H. McCormick, and A. A. Lewis. The large photographs of Raphael tapestries, recently presented by J. P. Morgan, Kaulbach's "Dance of Death," and lithographs by and after Barye represent other types of work. The books shown are of an equal variety; publications of the Duerer Society, the Vasari Society, and the Arundel Club, Prince d'Essling's work on the Venetian illustrated books of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, Stauffer's "American Engravers," and monographs on such different artistic individualities as Whistler, C. A. Platt, Callot, Daumier, Hollar, and Wilhelm Busch. Finally, interest in technical processes is served by H. Paton and V. Preissig in books on color etching.

At the ASTOR branch, photographs of American Indians made by Karl Moon, and portraits by Italian painters (photographs from the A. A. Hopkins Collection), have been on view.

Picture bulletins and lists of books on special subjects were displayed in the circulation branches as follows: CHATHAM SQUARE, Passover, Greek and Roman myths; SEWARD PARK, Mexico, Sports, Africa; RIVINGTON STREET, Soldiers and sailors; HAMILTON FISH PARK, March 15, Hungarian national holiday; HUDSON PARK, Alaska, The Oregon country, Southwest wonderland, California; BOND STREET, Benjamin Franklin, Country life in the West, William McKinley; OTTENDORFER, In the jungle; TOMPKINS SQUARE, Announcement in English and Hungarian of classes for beginners in English to be held in assembly room, Cost of living, Noteworthy articles in March periodicals, Norse legends, Alice-in-wonderland; EPIPHANY, Foreign children, Japanese child life, Pussy Willow; GEORGE BRUCE, Japan and China; Columbus, Irish flag; 58TH STREET, Grand opera composers, March birthdays of famous men and women, Great explorers, Indians; 67TH STREET, Circus books; RIVERSIDE, About the engine, Childhood, Housekeeping, Irish tales, Trees and flowers; YORKVILLE, Paris, Education; WEBSTER, Sir Walter Scott, Ivanhoe, Prague, Schwaiger: Bohemian fairy tale picture; ST. THE SOUTHERN CONVENTION OF 1850.

A NOTE ON ITS PROCEEDINGS

BY

ADELAIDE R. HASSE,
Chief of the Documents Department.

The Library has recently come into the possession of the proceedings of the Southern, or Nashville Convention of 1850. As the pamphlets are quite uncommon a collation and brief description is given.

1st session

Nashville, June 3-12, 1850.

Resolutions, Address, | and | Journal of Proceedings | of the | Southern Convention. | Held at Nashville, Tennessee, June 3d to 12th, | inclusive, in the year 1850. | Published by order of the Convention. | Nashville, Tenn., | Harvey M. Watterson, printer. | 1850. | 68 pp. 8°.

2d session

Nashville, Nov. 11-18, 1850.

Journal of Proceedings | of the | Southern Convention, | at its | adjourned session, | Held at Nashville, Tenn, Nov. 11, 1850, and Subsequent Days. | Nashville, Tenn. | Eastman & Boyers, printers, American office, | 1850. | 35 (1) pp. 8°.

In view of the uncommon occurrence of the original it may not be without interest to refer to some readily accessible papers of the day which printed a fairly full record of the proceedings.

The convention, in its June session, sat on each of the six days of the week beginning Monday, June 3, and on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, or June 10, 11 and 12, of the week following. The proceedings of June 3, 4, 7, 8 and 11 are printed in the "New York Tribune" of June 4, 5, 8, 12 and 13 respectively, with a fair degree of fullness. The "Tribune" prints the text of some speeches made on this day. These are not printed in the official text of the proceedings.

The Tucker resolutions of June 8 (misprinted June 7 in the original) are printed in extenso in the "Tribune" of June 12.

A debate on the adoption of the Address to the People occurred on June 11. The substance of this debate is given in the "Tribune" of June 13. It is entirely omitted from the official proceedings, only the names of the participants being mentioned. The "National Intelligencer" printed a very much condensed report of the proceedings of June 4, 5, 6, 7, 10, 11 and 12 in its issues of June 6, 7, 10, 13 and 15 respectively. This paper, in an editorial of June 4, 1850, on the origin of the convention, prints, in full, a letter* from John C. Calhoun to Col. C. S. Tarpley of Mississippi, dated Fort Hill, July 9, 1849, suggesting a convention of the Southern States. In the same editorial is included a long letter from Hon. James A. Meriwether "To the Voters of the 7th Congressional District," on the nature of the convention. Mr. Meriwether was well-known as a Whig of high standing, and had been a member in Congress from Georgia.

* This Calhoun letter is not among those printed by the American Historical Association in its Report for 1899.

The Gordon resolutions, June 8, and the Address to the People, which precede the journal in the official pamphlet are printed in full in the "National Anti-Slavery Standard" of June 27, 1850. James Russell Lowell was a corresponding editor of this paper at this time. That part of the Benning (Ga.) resolutions of June 5, beginning "That it is too plain for argument" (cf. p. 38-39 of the official print), is printed in the New York "Evening Post" of June 6.

In its November session the convention sat on each of the six days of the week beginning Monday, November 11, and on Monday, November 18 of the following week. The "Evening Post" in its issue of November 15, prints a synopsis of the proceedings of the convention of November 14. On this day Langdon Cheves, of South Carolina, offered a resolution in these terms: "That secession by the joint action of the slave-holding States is the only efficient remedy for the aggravated wrongs which they now endure and the enormous evils which threaten them in future, from the usurped and unrestrained power of the Federal Government." According to the "Evening Post" Mr. Cheves made a speech of three hours' duration when offering this resolution. No record of a print of this speech has been found in connection with researches for this memorandum. The "National Intelligencer" of November 16 and 18 prints a very much condensed report of the proceedings of November 16 and 15 respectively.

The Deavenport (Miss.) resolutions of November 14 are printed in full in the "National Anti-Slavery Standard" of December 5.

Judge Wm. L. Sharkey, of Mississippi, was President and Gov. Charles L. McDonald, of Georgia, was Vice-President of the June session. A list of the delegates is printed on pp. 25-26 of the Journal.

Gov. McDonald was President and Reuben Chapman of Alabama was Vice-President of the November session. A list of the members is printed on the verso of p. 35 of the Journal.

The most important gift of the month was a file of the New York "Sun," 1864-1910, bound in 131 volumes, given by Thomas F. Ryan. Heretofore we have had practically nothing of the "Sun" before 1870. It is to be hoped that some other friend of the library may turn over to us the volumes for 1833-1863. Our files of the "Herald," "Tribune," and "Evening Post" are practically complete.

Other gifts worthy of mention were received from the following: George H. Lamb, librarian of the Carnegie Free Library at Braddock, Pennsylvania, two blue print plans of the boroughs of Braddock and North Braddock, showing the location of the field of battle of July 9, 1755, based on a study of the ground in connection with two of the maps made by Patrick Mackellar, engineer with Braddock's army and the Carnegie, McCandless Co. property map of 1873, showing contours of the bottom lands in the vicinity of the road, located by Sydney Dillon and delineated by Thomas F. Graham and L. H. Park, printed in February, 1909; H. H. Easterbrook, twenty-one volumes and nineteen bundles of periodicals, relating to fire-service, including "Fire and water," "Fire and water engineering," "The Western fireman," etc.; Mrs. Theresa H. Freeman, 214 volumes, comprising a long file of the "Dental Cosmos," with other dental and medical periodicals; Francis W. Halsey, twenty-three different editions of "Charlotte Temple: A tale of truth," by Mrs. Rowson, and of "Lucy Temple: a sequel to Charlotte Temple," by the same author; Adrian H. Joline, his privately printed essays entitled "A Georgian poet" [Mark Akenside], and "A famous reviewer" [Lord Jeffrey]; the Mexican Secretaria de Fomento, Colonizacion e Industria, forty-four pamphlets relating to agriculture; the Mexican Instituto Patológico, Hospital de San Andres, the first seven volumes of its "Boletin" (1903-1910); I. Mink, 263 numbers of socialistic periodicals, including partial and complete volumes of "The Comrade" and "Der Wahre Jacob;" National Shorthand Reporters' Association, three volumes, proceedings of the annual meetings, 1899-1901, with other papers; Mrs. Eliot Norton, a miscellaneous collection of 320 periodicals, including complete volumes of "Country Life" and "The Spectator;" Oregon State Library, fifteen volumes and fifty-three pamphlets, reports of various departments of the state government; John F. Phayre, two volumes, "The Centaur not fabulous, in six letters to a friend on the Life in Vogue," by Ed. Young, D.D., Newburyport, January, 1806, and "Memoir of his own life," by R. Lamb, Dublin, 1811; the librarian of the legislative library of Prince Edward Island, sixteen volumes and forty-nine pamphlets, current public documents of the Province; Paul Raatz, five volumes and nine pamphlets, including four volumes of "Theosophisches Leben;" Railway Age Gazette, forty-six volumes and one pamphlet, proceedings of various railway clubs; the Government of Turkey, eighteen volumes of "Salnames" (yearbooks) of the various Vilayets (provinces); the United States Quartermaster General, a portfolio containing 26 plates, showing the uniform of the army of the United States from 1898-1907 (volume 2), October 4, 1909; United States Army Engineer School, two volumes and thirty-two pamphlets, "Occasional papers of the Engineer School;" the secretary of the American legation at Caracas, Venezuela, eight volumes and one pamphlet, documents of Venezuela; and the World's Columbian Congress, "A history of the World's Columbian Congress held in Chicago in 1893," edited by Rossiter Johnson, four volumes, New York, 1897-1898.

At the LENOX branch the Flameng exhibit was replaced in the middle of the month by one of political cartoons dealing with the American Revolution and events leading up to it. The prints, over 250 in number (a few belonging to the Library, the greater part loaned by Mr. R. T. Haines Halsey), are, with a few exceptions, of English, French, or Dutch origin. In these eighteenth century caricatures the historical interest predominates, the artistic element being practically absent, except, perhaps, in some of the early work of Gillray and Rowlandson. As a pictorial comment on the events of the time, these engravings reflect public opinion in a vivid manner. They are nearly all friendly to America, and, in the case of the French and Dutch productions, decidedly anti-English. In the lower hall the exhibit of recent accessions remained on view.

At the ASTOR branch the exhibition of plates from the "Meister der Farbe" and the American book-plates was continued.

Picture bulletins and special lists posted in the circulation branches were: CHATHAM SQUARE, Mother Goose melodies, Old New York; SEWARD PARK, Aërial Navigation; RIVINGTON STREET, Polish International Congress; BOND STREET, Flowers, Reading list for foreigners; HUDSON PARK, Spring-time; OTTENDORFER, Sun and stars; TOMPKINS SQUARE, Pinchot-Ballinger controversy, Articles of interest on June periodicals; EPIPHANY, Birds, Indians, Robin Hood; ST. GABRIEL'S PARK, Electricity; COLUMBUS, Life on the farm, The red man, Japanese blossoms; 58TH STREET, Vacation; 67TH STREET, Rip Van Winkle; RIVERSIDE, Games; ST. AGNES, Astronomy, Books for girls, Vacation books, Stories about actors, artists and musicians; AGUILAR, Birds; 125TH STREET, Green things growing; HIGH BRIDGE, Automobiles; MORRISANIA, Country life; TREMONT, How to know the wild flowers, Other lands than ours, Sea yarns; KINGSBRIDGE, Birds about us, Child life in the country; STAPLETON, Book lovers, Railroads, William Shakespeare.

In addition there were bulletins on Memorial Day at sixteen branches, on May Day at twelve, on King Edward VII at nine, on King George V and family at five, on Samuel L. Clemens at five, on new books at five, on gardens and gardening at five, on comets at three, on out-of-door books at three, on Arbor Day at two and on the May Queen at two branches.

At the WEBSTER branch was shown a collection of Kate Greenaway pictures, and illustrations of Ivanhoe; at the 135TH STREET branch three pictures depicting battles of the Græco-Turkish and Russo-Japanese wars; and at the MORRISANIA branch photographs of Bronx views lent by Mr. E. B. Child.

At CHATHAM SQUARE was shown an interesting collection of objects illustrating Chinese life and customs, a loan from the American Museum of Natural History; it included a model of a Chinese theatre, a large imperial kite, a shield, bow and arrow, and various smaller articles in common use.

The most important gift of the month was received from James J. Higginson, a copy of the profusely illustrated work on "The birds of Washington: a complete scientific and popular account of the 372 species of birds found in the State," by William Leon Dawson, assisted by John H. Bowles, 2 volumes, Seattle, 1909, large paper edition.

Other important gifts came from the following: American Dramatists Club, its memorial volume called "In memoriam, Bronson Howard 1842-1908, founder and president," New York, 1910; Bibliothèque Royale de Belgique, tome 9 of the "Catalogue des manuscrits;" Bibliographical Society of America, volume 4 of the "Papers;" Biblioteca Ambrosiana, Milan, "Nel III. Centenario della Biblioteca Ambrosiana, 1609-1909," Milano, 1909; British South African Customs Statistical Bureau, four volumes and five pamphlets, relating to the trade of South Africa; the Carteret Book Club, through Mr. John Cotton Dana, "Letters of Hawthorne to William D. Ticknor, 1851 to 1864," Newark, 1910, 2 volumes, printed by Mr. Frank Hopkins at the Marion Press, Jamaica; Mrs. Lewis Clephane, "Autobiography of Thomas Painter; relating his experiences during the War of the Revolution," privately printed at Washington, D. C., March, 1910; P. L. Dyrsen, a miscellaneous collection of German and French books, seventy in number; Fortnightly Club for the Study of Anthropology, "Gilbert Hilton Scribner; memorial addresses at a special meeting of the Fortnightly Club," Yonkers, 1910; Japan Imperial Patent Office, the "Laws and regulations relating to patents, designs, trade-marks and utility models 1909," Japan, 1910; H. Le Sidaner, three of his lithographs; Dutch East Indies, Agricultural Department, fourteen volumes and thirty-five pamphlets, all official publications of the department; New York City Metropolitan Sewerage Commission, its recent report on the question of sewage in New York harbor; Jerome Tourtellote, "History of Company K of the 7th Connecticut Volunteer Infantry in the Civil War," compiled by a member, 1910; Frederick W. Whitridge, "Correspondence, Frederick W. Whitridge, receiver of the Third Avenue Railroad and Public Service Commission," volume 3, 1909-1910.

At the LENOX branch the loan exhibition of cartoons dealing with the American Revolution, from the collection of Mr. R. T. Haines Halsey was continued. In June the "Recent Accessions" were replaced by a memorial exhibition of works by the late James D. Smillie. The engravings here shown illustrate the many-sided and interesting activity of a long artistic career. They form also an object lesson in methods of producing prints—for Mr. Smillie had a remarkable knowledge of processes—and include etchings, soft ground etchings, mezzotints, aquatints, and line engravings, as well as an interesting collection of engravers' tools, mezzotint rockers, roulettes, and gravers. The pictures themselves are as diversified in subject as in method. Mr. Smillie for years was an active and enthusiastic worker in the cause of original or painter-etching; he was a prime mover in the foundation of the old New York Etching Club (the Library possesses the original copperplate produced at the first meeting of the Club by J. D. Smillie, L. M. Yale, and R. S. Gifford); and in recent years he served as instructor in etching at the Academy of Design. The present representative showing was made possible by the gift of the collection by the estate. Of the works of his father, James Smillie, a noted line engraver, the Library has long had a large collection. This exhibit was continued during July.

At the ASTOR branch the plates from "Neue Monogramme" and "Die Zierform" were continued during July, and in addition were shown plates from the newly published study of the Dutch painter entitled "Israels und seine Kunst."

FREDERICK THE GREAT'S REQUIREMENTS FOR THE PRUSSIAN ARMY OFFICER.

The following letter from Frederick the Great is printed from his holograph manuscript now in the New York Public Library; the letter to which it is a copy is a contemporary copy. The two were presented to the Astor Library in 1884 by Mrs. John Jacob Astor.

SIRE,

Un nommé Devitz gentilhomme Mecklenbourgeois, qui jouit d'à peu près 5000 ecus de revenues et qui s'attend avec raison à des heritages considerables, est passé ici pour se rendre à l'armée Prusse ou par le canal du Sr. de Sallern. il doit devenir capitaine de cavallerie. m'étant venu voir en qualité de compatriote je luy ai fait sentir les avantages du service de Votre Maiesté et il paroît etre disposé à rester ici s'il osoit se flatter que par ses graces il pourroit etre placé sur le meme pied. Il a passé les 27 ans et n'a pu s'engager plus-tot pour l'amour de l'arrangement de ses affaires et de ses terres. C'est par l'attachement la plus respectueux que je m'enhardis à luy faire ce rapport etant avec la soumission la plus profonde

de Votre Maiesté

Je vous remercie des offres de service que vous me faites de la part d'un Gentilhomme Mecklenbourgeois nommé de Dewitz. Je ne saurois les accepter. La qualité d'être riche n'admet personne dans mon Militaire. c'est la capacité & la bravoure seule qui peuvent y faire entrer. En attendant Je vous sais gré de votre attention à cet egard; Et sur ce Je prie Dieu qu'il vous ait en sa sainte & digne garde.

Torre do Valle (Mavulanganga)," Lourenço Marques, 1906.

At the LENOX branch the cartoons relating to the American Revolution, in the print gallery, and the Smillie memorial exhibit in the lower hall remained on view during the month. At the ASTOR branch reproductions of paintings by Victor Vasnetzov, and plates from C. Hofstede de Groot's work on Jan Vermeer of Delft and Carel Fabritius were on view.

The evening classes for foreigners who desire to study the English language, begun last Spring at several circulation branches under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., are being continued this winter. Classes are being held in ten branches, of which five are on the lower East-side (CHATHAM SQUARE, SEWARD PARK, HAMILTON FISH PARK, RIVINGTON STREET, AND TOMPKINS SQUARE), one on the lower West-side (HUDSON PARK), three on the upper East-side (WEBSTER, NINETY-SIXTH STREET, and AGUILAR), and one in The Bronx (HIGHBRIDGE).

In the neighborhood of the HUDSON PARK and ST. GABRIEL'S PARK branches several battalions of "Boy Scouts" have been organized, and have been granted permission to use the assembly-rooms of these branches for their meetings. Between 80 and 100 boys have joined the battalions.

The CHATHAM SQUARE branch has just added 100 volumes to its collection of books in the Chinese language which now numbers about 200. Several Chinese residents of the district have co-operated with the library by assisting in the translation of titles, and suggesting new books, and also by telling their friends about the library and its privileges. Circulars printed in the Chinese language have been distributed announcing this collection and inviting Chinamen in the neighborhood to come to the library and take out books. The response has been gratifying, a number of the Chinese having registered and withdrawn books. It is interesting to note that several of the Chinese readers have borrowed books in English as well as in Chinese.

At the STAPLETON branch there have been placed on exhibition six models of aeroplanes lent by members of a boys' Aero Club organized in one of the High Schools. The models are from one to three feet in length, one being of the Curtis type, one of the Wright type, and the others being designed to carry out the ideas of the boys. Much interest is shown in this exhibition by readers at the library.

The Committee on the Prevention of Tuberculosis of the Charity Organization Society of the City of New York is planning to give lectures on tuberculosis in the assembly-rooms of the various branches during the winter. To assist the work of the Committee the Library has arranged to distribute from its delivery desks circulars published by the Society on "How to avoid Consumption (Tuberculosis)." The best popular books on the subject will be obtained by the Library for circulation.

At the LENOX branch on Friday, December 9, Mayor Gaynor tendered a reception to the members of the American Academy of Arts and Letters and the National Institute of Arts and Letters.
